FDR, Churchill Start 'Victory Parley'

LAUNCH QUEBEC CONFERENCE ON WAR STRATEGY

Start Task of Drawing Up New Plans To Force Axis Into Unconditional Surrender.

CROWD CHEERS PRESIDENT

Lights Burn Late In Historic Chateau as Ranking War Leaders Lay Plans.

BULLETIN

QUEBEC—(UP)—German "negotiated peace" feelers as enunciated by an unidentified Berlin radio commentator will fall on deaf ears as far as President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill are concerned, persons close to the leaders said today.

(By Associated Press)

QUEBEC—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, surrounded by the highest military leaders of their nations, plunged today into the task of mapping the next strategical moves to compel the unconditional surrender of the Axis powers at the earliest possible moment.

As the historic conference began there were indications that it would take a week to complete the new war pattern and place the final stamp of approval on plans drawn up by the staffs of military experts in the light of recent Allied victories.

The president will visit Ottawa, the Canadian capital, upon the invitation of Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King before his return to Washington, it was announced today at a press conference by Stephen Early the president's press secretary.

Early said the visit probably would be the first part of next week. His statement was the first official indication that the Quebec conference would be over late this week.

Mr. Roosevelt, last to reach the French Canadian scene of deliberations which almost certainly will result in stepping up the war in Europe and the Far East, came in from Washington late

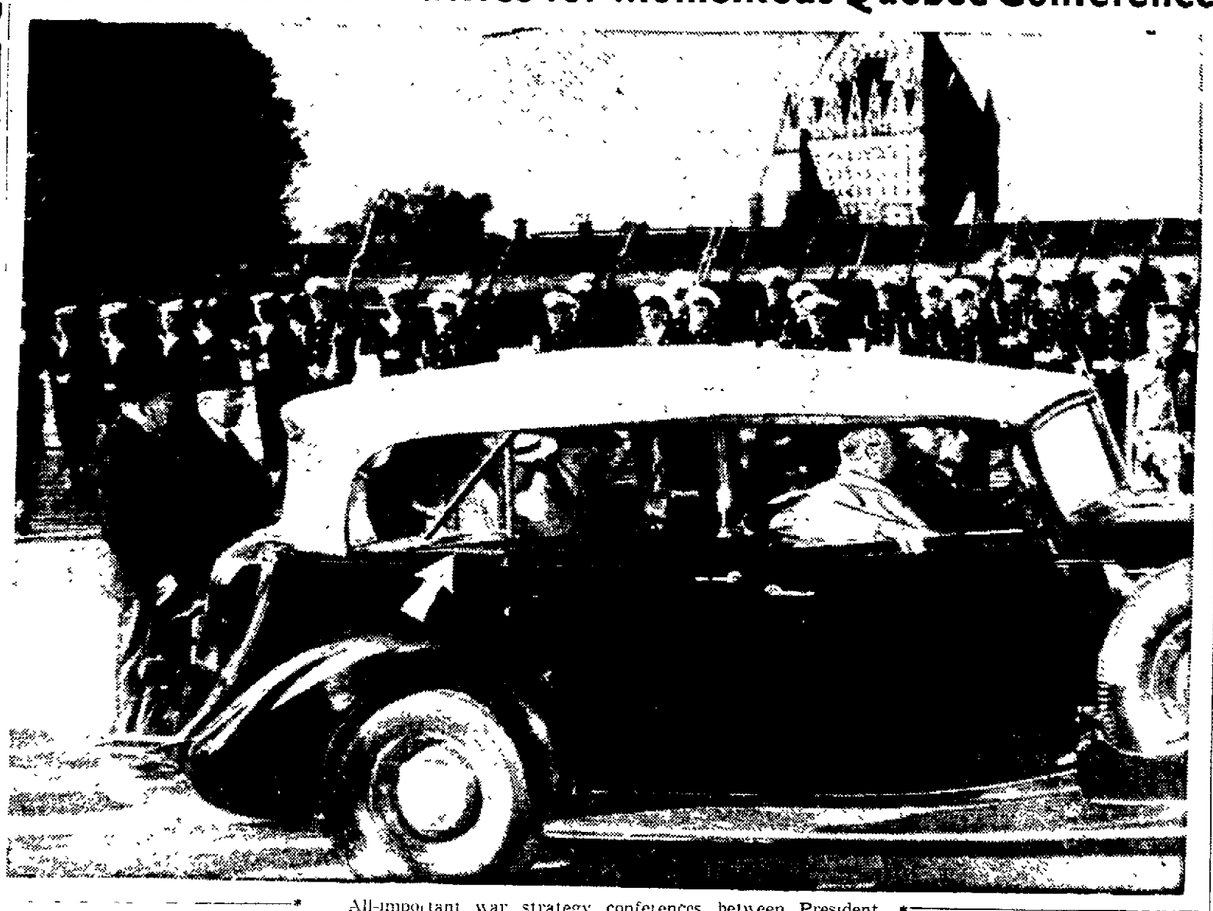
President Roosevelt Arrives for Momentous Quebec Conference



All-important war strategy conferences between President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and other high-ranking diplomatic and military leaders of the U. S., Britain and Canada are underway in Quebec following the arrival of President Roosevelt above. The chief executive of the U. S. is shown, arrow, as he arrived at the citadel, ancient fort where the conferences are being held. Seated in the car with Mr. Roosevelt is the Earl of Athlone, governor general of Canada. Standing behind the car are Prime Minister Churchill, left, and the Canadian prime minister, W. L. Mackenzie King.

BADOGLIO TALKS

Italian Premier Goes on Air To Address Sicilians.

LONDON—(AP)—The Rome radio said today in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian Premier, would speak to Sicily over the Rome radio at 8:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. Eastern War Time) today.

The announcement said that Badoglio would speak immediately after an address by former Premier Vittorio Emanuel Orlando.

Orlando is a Sicilian and was one of the Big Four at Versailles when the peace treaty was drawn after World war I. Since breaking with Benito Mussolini in 1925 he has been living in seclusion. He is 83 years old and reputed to be one of Italy's great orators.

POSTPONE TAX?

Two Per Cent Increase in Social Security May Be Delayed.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R.) Mich., said today he may introduce a bill to postpone the scheduled automatic increase of two per cent in the old-age social security tax on Jan. 1, 1944, totaling $1,500,000,000.

Twice congress has postponed increases in the payroll taxes scheduled when the original bill was enacted in 1935.

OHIOAN MISSING

Sergeant Was Passenger On Plane Lost Since Sunday.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Staff Sgt. V. Valone of Niles Center, O., was a passenger aboard a medium bomber which the MacDill Field Public Relations office said had been missing since Sunday night.

The plane was en route to Kellogg Field, Battle Creek, Mich., with seven aboard, and was last heard of at Greenville, S. C., Sunday afternoon.

PROMISES AID ON PORT ROAD

State Tells Mayor It'll Help Finance Road Re-location; Detour Suggested.

Promised some help from the state in relocating State Route 13 to permit expansion of the Mansfield airport, Mayor W. J. Locke said today [illegible] highway officials in Columbus yesterday that a Route 13 detour around the airport site be established if it appears that the highway can't be relocated in time to start the airport work early next year.

The mayor conferred in Columbus with representatives of the highway department and Congressman J. Harry McGregor.

It was agreed, Mayor Locke said, to try again to get financial help from the Civil Aeronautics authority and Public Roads administration for the relocation job. The extent of the state highway department's proposed help was not revealed the mayor said.

There is a possibility that Route 13 traffic could be detoured over the Olivesburg road out of Mansfield and back to Route 13

Red Cross Rents Building for New Service Center

Richland County Red Cross will have a new chapter house in a few weeks where volunteer service departments will be housed Miss Miriam Hooper, secretary, announced today.

The Red Cross executive board voted to rent the house at 309 Park avenue west where the state highway patrol office has been quartered. The building is owned by the First Presbyterian church. Highway patrol offices are to be moved to a location on U. S. route 42 soon.

Allen Bond, Red Cross county chairman, refused to disclose the amount of rental on the building. When it was pointed out that the Red Cross is entirely supported by public contributions and that subscribers might want to know how their money is being spent, Bond replied, "That might be right, but I feel differently about it."

Service that will maintain offices at the building are surgical dressings, sewing, knitting, canteen corps, and junior Red Cross.

The rooms for the surgical dressings have been located at 57 West Second street since last December. The sewing rooms have

LONDON — (INS) — Lady Drummond Hay, missing since the start of the Japanese war in the Pacific, when she was known to be in Manila, today was reported interned in a prison camp at Shanghai.

Roosevelt Orders Stricter Rein on Unions In Wartime

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A new and drastic policy to force compliance with War Labor Board decisions by unions and employers alike was placed in effect today by President Roosevelt.

Withdrawal of a union's contractual rights and privileges or withholding of priorities and war contracts from employes is authorized.

It is the administration's first move to penalize unions for ignoring or disobeying WLB decisions, although employers have been acted against in some cases.

The new policy "puts teeth in both upper and lower jaws," said a WLB spokesman.

Included in punishment provided for unions is a prospective blow in the pocketbook, at least for those having the check-off system of dues collection. They would be deprived of dues taken out of members' pay envelopes pending compliance. The money then would be turned over to them.

The broad statement of policy, effective at once, is enunciated under the recently-enacted Connally-Smith anti-strike act. The White House made public a letter to Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB and an executive order empowering Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson to proceed against recalcitrants as reported to him by the board.

Meanwhile, it was indicated in informed quarters that the authorizations given Vinson plus an authorization to Inter-

GOP Chairman Says Bender Acted Without Consent.

Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the Republican national committee, became a member of the "advisory committee" of Congressman George H. Bender's personal newspaper, the National Republican, without his knowledge or consent, the Cleveland Press said today.

The newspaper said Spangler was "not aware" that his name heads a list of 39 "advisors" for the Cleveland congressman's publication and added that he "did not recall ever having been asked to serve."

The Press has accused Bender of using state-paid highway department employes to aid in getting out his newspaper when they should have been working in the highway department.

BOY CRITICALLY WOUNDED

Lima Ponders 10:30 P. M. Deadline For All Under 17.

LIMA — (INS) — Lima is contemplating new legislation establishing a 10:30 p. m. curfew for all persons under 17 years of age, civic officials reported today.

City Solicitor Lee Van Blargan, Police Chief James Goodwin and Councilman Lawrence Copeland will study a similar ordinance passed recently in Columbus and will report their findings to the council.

J. A. C. Leases Building for Operating 'Dry Night Club'

Plans for a "dry night club" for Mansfield's teen-age youngsters began to materialize today with announcement by the Junior Association of Commerce that it has leased a room on Park avenue east and that it will begin work on the youth recreation center next week.

Following a series of meetings with J. S. Terman, owner of the building, formerly occupied by the "Playtime," J. A. C. officials leased the building for three months at a rental of $150 a month. A special meeting of the board of directors has been called for tonight to approve the plans made by a group of J. A. C. officers yesterday.

Edwin Balyeat, J. A. C. president, said rent is "higher than the organization had planned to pay" but said the J. A. C. hoped to be able to operate on the plan by charging youngsters $1 membership fee for three months. By paying this fee, youngsters will be entitled to come to the center Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The building is 70 feet by 30 feet and contains three rooms. The J. A. C. plans to use the

PLANS PARLEY ON O.S.R. DORMS

Welfare Director Says He'll Confer With Glattke on Housing Degenerates.

State Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney said today he planned to confer with Superintendent A. L. Glattke of the Mansfield Reformatory concerning the possibility of using dormitories outside the Mansfield Reformatory to help care for degenerates and mental defectives as soon as Glattke returns from the west coast.

This plan was the outgrowth of a conference of state, county and city welfare officials and judges, arranged by Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland to consider way of preventing crimes like the slaying last week of James and Charles Collins, 13-year-old twins.

Henry Hagerl, 17, reform school parolee recently released from a hospital psycopathic ward, is charged with the killings.

Following an inspection of Cleveland's city hospital, where 200 beds were offered for defectives' care if the state agreed to meet the expense, Mooney said he would confer with Glattke concerning the use of dormitories outside the reformatory walls.

Willard Soldier Killed In South Pacific Warfare

BULLETIN

John Eichler, Crestline, was notified by the secretary of war this morning that his son, Cpl. Herbert J. Eichler, 10, had been killed in action in the African theater of war, July 11. Eichler was inducted into the army about three years ago but was later released because he was over the age limit. He was recalled in December, 1941.

WILLARD — In a message from the war department today, Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Dermer were informed of the death of their son, Sgt. Wayne Dermer, 26, somewhere in the South Pacific.

Sgt. Dermer was killed in action Aug. 4, the message said, though full particulars were not given.

One of the first men to be drafted from Willard, he was promoted to the rank of sergeant a short time ago in the South Pacific area where he was stationed with the 37th Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Dermer believed their son was stationed on New Georgia Island according to information he gave them in his last letter two weeks ago. He had written earlier of a reunion he and two other Willard boys had in the Fiji Islands.

Besides his parents he is survived by a brother, Clayton, training for a paratrooper in South Carolina and a sister, Lois, at home.

8 ELIGIBLE TO APPLY FOR FIRE CHIEF'S POST

Captains Qualified To Take Civil Service Exams as Seeburger Successor.

WOLFF PLANS ACTION

Director Says He'll Appoint Acting Chief; Mayor Replies To 'Politics' Charge.

With Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger's resignation in his office, Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff today said he would ask the civil service commission to conduct an examination to establish an eligibility list from which a new chief will be chosen.

Under the civil service regulations any of the eight captains in the fire department is eligible to apply for the chief's post and to take the examination.

L. R. Zimmerman, senior captain at Central station, said today he would take the examination. It is expected that Zimmerman will be made acting chief to succeed Seeburger until the vacancy is filled, although the service-safety director pointed out today that he still has a week to name the acting chief since Seeburger's resignation is not effective until next Wednesday.

Other captains in the fire department are William Gutekunst, Paul Young, Frank R. Stahl, Ralph Shively, Lee Harley, Lonnie Steele and Raymond Kline.

When Seeburger announced his resignation yesterday after 10 years as head of the fire department, he charged that the city administration had put so much politics in the fire department that he didn't want to stay any longer.

The retiring chief specifically charged that Mayor W. J. Locke had "used his influence" to have one of the city's new fire pumpers placed at the No. 4 station on Newman street "because of political pressure in that section."

Mayor Locke explained, however, that the reason he recommended sending the new pumper there was that the No. 4 station equipment was old and the industrial section of the city needed more fire protection, especially in view of the fact that the only clear route to the plants north and east of the railroads from Central station is through the Park avenue east subway, a round-about route.

CONVOY MOVES

Spain Reports Ship Movement Into Mediterranean.

MADRID, Aug. 17 — (Delayed) (AP) — Dispatches from La Linea today said three Allied airplane carriers and six gunboats had left Gibraltar for the Mediterranean this morning while 25 merchantmen under convoy departed in the direction of the Atlantic.

Two cruisers and eight gunboats remained in Gibraltar harbor while an American tanker, carrying 14 planes on its deck, entered the port, the advices said.

During the morning the Mediterranean, between Gibraltar and La Linea was reported covering with a thick coat of oil and bits of wreckage, presumably from a submarine or ship sunk in the near vicinity.

WORST OF ALL

Messina Smashed Harder Than Palermo or Catania.

LONDON — (INS) — A Reuter's correspondent with the British Eighth army reported today that the destruction of Messina was much worse than that in Palermo or Catania.

The correspondent, J. H. Lessing, said he found the city completely destroyed and "practically down to ground level."

Mother and Son Die as Gasoline Sets Home Afire.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Mrs. Rose Hillenbrand, 38, and her son Lawrence, 9, died in Mount Sinai hospital today from burns received when gasoline ignited in the basement of their east side home.

Police said the fatal blast occurred yesterday when Lawrence dropped a jug of cleaning fluid near a water heater.

Loss of Sicily Set at 167,000 Axis Casualties

Eisenhower Warns of Another Drive by British and Americans; Puts Own Losses In Fall of Italian Island at 25,000 Men.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—A Royal Air Force spokesman said today that Allied planes based in Britain and Africa carried out 2,500 to 3,000 sorties—a sortie is one flight by one plane—against the Axis in the last 24 hours.

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, broadly hinting at new blows against the Axis, declared today that both the American Seventh army and the British Eighth "are ready to go at any minute" and announced that enemy losses in the battle for Sicily up to Aug. 10 totaled 167,000 killed, wounded and prisoners.

Allied casualties were estimated at 25,000 men.

The Allied supreme commander in the Mediterranean theater said Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, his field deputy, now has a powerful one-two punch—the ability to swing two real armies as he sees fit.

"We've brought up an American army that is a worthy partner of the Eighth army," Gen. Eisenhower said. "We can count on them with complete confidence."

Meanwhile, a thunderous air offensive that hit every flank of Adolf Hitler's European fortress—ranging from the eastern Mediterranean through southern France and Germany to the English channel invasion coast—intensified the German high command's frantic query today: "Where will the Allies strike next?"

With the 38-day conquest of Sicily written into the pages of history many hundreds of Allied bombers turned their fury on Nazi-occupied Greece, Italy, the Reich, France, Belgium and Holland in probably the greatest overall offensive of the war.

The British air ministry said RAF Mosquito bombers attacked Berlin during the night while the RAF's giant blockbuster raiders struck the German research center of Peenemuende, 60 miles northwest of Stettin. Forty-one bombers and one fighter were lost in the night's operations.

A German broadcast said "isolated nuisance raiders" attacked Berlin and listed more than 30 planes shot down.

In daylight yesterday, American Flying Fortresses making their first shuttle raid from Britain to North Africa thrust deep into the southeast corner of Germany, near Munich, and dropped their bombs on the Nazi's second largest Messerschmitt factory at Regensburg. The big planes flew on to North African bases to complete a 1,500-mile journey.

At the same time, Flying Fortresses from North Africa made their first raid on southern France, bombing German airfields at Istres Le Tube and Salon, 25 miles northwest of Merseille.

Other Allied targets in a 24-hour period included Le Bourget airdrome in Paris, the 72-acre ball-bearing plant at Schweinfurt, near Frankfurt; Nazi airdromes at Lille-Vendoville, Bryas Sud and

REPEAT: Same American Unit Takes Messina Without a Shot

By MICHAEL CHINIGO
(INS Staff Correspondent)

MESSINA, Sicily, Aug. 17.—Messina, like Palermo, fell to American troops at 6:10 a. m. today without a shot.

The Palermo pattern was followed so closely that the same Third division, the same regiment and the same platoon under the command of Second Lieut. Ralph Yeates of Fort Worth, Tex., again held the spotlight.

The Yanks who seized Palermo duplicated their feat at Messina after another record-breaking dash along the north coast road in which Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's crack Seventh army surpassed all its brilliant achievements of the 38-day Sicilian campaign.

Your correspondent again was with the capturing unit, only this time he was forced to play the role of surrender mediator at the American commander's request. It was 12:30 a. m. when Maj. Grover Wilson of Spokane, Wash., came to ask my participation in surrender negotiations hoping to avoid further bloodshed.

Our reconnaissance parties already had entered the city's outskirts and powerful patrols were ready to blast their way into the Sicilian metropolis.

The scheme was to find two or three Italian officials at the outskirts of Messina and, with them, proceed into the bomb-battered city to demand unconditional surrender. I undertook to line up three officials—the chief of the royal police, a civilian delegate and a physician who turned out to be an intimate friend of Messina's military commander.

All this took place at a little village several miles behind our "ridge road" line crossing the highway to Messina. By the time we had worked our way to the ridge positions—we had a flat tire on the way and had to go past three road demolitions—Lieut. Col. J. A. Heintges of Portland, Ore., already had sent forward another striking column.

He offered to provide us with a five-man patrol to guide us to Messina. The unit, commanded by Lieut. Jeff McKneely of Lubbock, Tex., comprised Pfc. Guy Sumner of Yakima, Wash., Pvts.

SMASHED: Terrific U. S. Blow Destroys 120 Japanese Aircraft

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—The Japanese airforce was dealt its most humiliating defeat of the war Tuesday at Wewak, New Guinea, where 225 of its planes were caught on the ground by Allied bombers, 120 destroyed, 50 severely damaged and an estimated 1,500 air personnel killed.

Only seven of the enemy planes even got into the air and three were shot down. Out of some 200 planes in the raiding party, only three were lost.

This staggering blow, virtually stripping the enemy of his air strength in central New Guinea, was dealt by 10,000 bombs dropped from Liberators, Flying Fortresses, Mitchells and Bostons.

"Numerically, the opposing forces were about equal in strength but one was in the air and the other was not," Gen. Douglas MacArthur commented jubilantly.

"Nothing is so helpless as a plane on the ground."

"It was the opening battle for air supremacy over central New Guinea," said Maj. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead, commander of the advance echelon of Allied airforces in the southwest Pacific.

The surprise was complete and devastating.

Allied reconnaissance planes had detected the Japanese massing the greatest force of planes they ever had assembled in the Wewak area. Obviously, the enemy intended to

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, August 19.

An expansive, cheering and optimistic note is struck by planetary vibrations on the affairs of this day, which should be engineered into high levels of accomplishments and satisfaction. It may be a time for pushing with might and main for cherished goals, in financial, business, professional and social ambitions, although there may be want of cooperation or approval from certain influential quarters. However, big issues are possibly at stake. Also in the realm of romance and personal joys there should be rich promise of happy fruition. Push for heart's desires, but without rash extravagance or indulgences.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a most gratifying, happy and expansive year, with most of the cherished hopes and wishes finding rich fulfilment and happiness. In private affiliations there may be cause for festivity, celebrations and other abundant joys and gratifications, which should however not be carried to over extravagence or excesses. Seek the goals of hearts desire with generous moderation.

A child born on this day should have excellent abilities, with fine qualities and worthy ambitions, assuring a successful, honored and happy life.

MAKE IT LAST BY RE-DYEING

"Make it last as long as you can," consumers are urged by Donald Nelson, chief of the War production Board. In thus conserving fabrics, you needn't look drab or dated either. Home-dyeing will make your present wardrobe last longer, look better. You can tintex practically every item in your wardrobe, to say nothing of such home decorations as curtains, slip covers, bedspreads, sheets and pillow cases. You have over 50 true colors from which to choose—many no longer available in new fabrics. You'll be saving money by re-dyeing, too, since a box of home dye costs but 10 or 15 cents. And home-dyeing is really very simple, once you read the directions on the box.

WHITENS SHEER FABRICS

If you're hesitant about whitening sheer fabrics with ordinary bluing, you'll be interested in a preparation that is neither an ordinary bluing nor a bleach—yet will safely whiten the sheerest fabrics, even silk and wool! Because the preparation produces the whitest while possible and because of the wartime laundry situation, many housewives are using it to whitex their family laundry in addition to the delicate things.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Halloran opened the door with a smile of welcome, but with uneasy questioning in his eyes.

"I hope everything went all right," he said. "Nobody suspected?"

"Everything went swimmingly," Dicky assured him. "You did a swell job. Now if you'll undo it as fast as possible. I'll tell the operator where to find us."

He went to the telephone, while Halloran regarded me thoughtfully.

"It doesn't matter about your clothes," he said. "I'll just take your make-up and wig off. Then you can get into your own clothes and put on your cosmetics After that I'll do your hair if you wish."

"Thank you," I said, "but I always do my own hair."

Halloran Appears.

"And a very good job, too." Halloran approved with a little bow. "Now—if you'll just sit down here." He indicated a straight chair, and fastened towels around my neck, just as Dicky turned from the telephone.

"They'll give us any calls that come in," he told me. "Now, Halloran, where will I be the least in the way?"

"In that big chair over there by the window," the make-up man answered promptly. "Have you seen a morning paper?"

"No, haven't had a minute," Dicky replied.

"I have one here." Halloran said, taking it from the table and holding it out to Dicky who took it and settled himself comfortably in the indicated chair.

"Don't hurry on my account," he told Halloran with a grin, and the make-up man smiled companionably back at him.

"This is a job you can't hurry," he said. "I want to be sure I don't hurt Mrs. Graham when I take off this wig.

"But, I'm sure it won't hurt," he added, in quick reassurance. "It hasn't been on long enough, and I'll be as quick and careful as I can."

"I know that." I told him, and then settled myself to go through the process of getting back to my normal appearance.

Halloran kept his promise. There was no pain, and only slight discomfort in the detaching of my wig, and the process of removing the make-up was not nearly as long as that of putting it on. When Halloran had finished, Dicky was so deep in his newspaper that he did not even look up as I took my clothing from the closet and went into the bathroom to change.

When I came out again, Dicky was still reading, and Halloran was packing up his paraphernalia I went over to my husband, and tapped him on the shoulder

"Mrs. Richard Graham calling," I said, and Dicky sprang up, his paper falling to the floor.

Dicky Is Delighted.

"How do you do?" he exclaimed, pumping my hand up and down exuberantly. "I'm so glad to see you again after your long absence. 'Maggie' was all right of course, but I'm afraid I would have been bored with her for steady company."

Halloran laughed indulgently.

"She's much handsomer this way," he said with a touch of the Blarney Stone in his manner. "And now, if you don't need me any longer, I'll be going."

We both shook hands with him warmly, and thanked him with sincere gratitude for a job well done. When he had gone, Dicky advanced on me with a threatening look in his eye.

"I told you how you were going to be kissed!" he said.

"See if I care!" I murmured.

"That's awfully dated," Dicky said, and we walked on air until the telephone brought us down to earth again.

"Hello, Dad!" Dicky said when he heard the voice at the other end of the wire. "Yes, she'll be ready. Everything went off splendidly, and we have a lot to tell you. Yes, we can start immediately. No, we won't telephone. Yes, I'll tell her. That's mighty fine. So long!"

He hung up the receiver and turned to me.

"Dad's afraid we might telephone him at the Lansfield," he said. "He made this call from an outside telephone where he's been stationed since Olma left. She's back safely, and Dad's had word that the 'Wilderness Woman' is safely back in the Meyers apartment, which, incidentally, I fancy, will be an empty apartment after today."

Picnic Party for Children Given At North Park

Members of the Child Guidance club entertained their children with a picnic party at North Lake park Tuesday afternoon. Thirty-five were in attendance. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Frank Breckenridge, Mrs. LeRoy McGinty and Mrs. Forrest Kimmel.

The afternoon was spent socially with games and contests as the diversion. Plans were made for a corn roast to be held Sept. 13, the place to be announced later. This will be a family party in charge of Mrs. G P. Van Arnam, Mrs. Kimmel, Mrs Bart Haley and Mrs. Gaylord Herring.

Cream Puffs Are Easy to Make

By BETSY NEWMAN

To take our minds off stretching our meat points and other inconveniences of the war for the time being, let's make cream puffs. It's not difficult, so don't shy away, you brides.

Today's Menu.

Boiled Fish
Mashed Potatoes or Boiled Rice
Tomato and Cucumber Salad
Buttered Beets
Cream Puffs Iced Tea

Cream Puffs.

1 cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
3 eggs

Boil water and butter, stir in flour dry. When cooked let it cool, then stir in eggs one at a time, unbeaten. Drop on tin and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. When done, cut open at top and fill with cream.

Cream.

2 cups milk
2 eggs
1 heaping teaspoon flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla or lemon

Beat eggs in top part of double boiler, add flour and mix smooth, then add sugar, then milk, a little at a time, stirring smooth. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, then add flavoring and pour into puffs You may find that ½ cup sugar makes the cream sweet enough.

FRUIT GROWERS GO TO WOOSTER

Orchard Day Program Planned For Experiment Station; Displays Arranged.

Richland county fruit growers with orchard cultivators all over the state will attend the annual Ohio Orchard Day program at the Agricultural Experiment station at Wooster tomorrow.

The morning session will be concerned with the fruit work at the experiment station and a display of different varieties of fruit. A program planned for the women will consist of demonstrations of home dehydration of fruits and vegetables.

In the afternoon, particular attention will be given to a discussion of methods of handling the peach crop. The labor situation on fruit farms and the salvaging and reuse of fruit marketing containers also are on the program for discussion in the afternoon.

During the day, the department of entomology and botany at the experiment station will conduct a clinic on fruit insects and diseases.

LISTS WINNERS

Victors In Playground Events Announced By Director.

Last week's point winners in the Prospect park summer playground program were announced this morning by Recreation Director Al Fendrick.

Winner in the boys' contest was Richard Kellogg. Second place went to Frank Shillemi and third place to Donavan Garber.

Marjorie Pfeifer took top honors in the girls' contest, followed by Marlene Remy, second, and Paula Kellogg, third.

Points are awarded to children for good conduct, participation, attendance and courtesy.

Urges Men To Learn To Swim Before Enlisting

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—With revelation by the New York State War Council on Physical Fitness that more men in service have lost their lives by drowning than through enemy action, a Cooper Union physical education instructor, J. Clinton Hollinger, urges that men of military age learn how to handle themselves in water.

"Military officials admit it is impossible to teach expertness in the water in the short basic training period unless the recruits have already learned fundamentals of keeping themselves afloat before going into uniform," Hollinger said.

"A large part of this war is being waged on warships, troop transports and merchant vessels, and by our aviators continuously flying over water. When an accident occurs at sea the men must know how to handle themselves.

"Swimming must now prepare men for war and each man must learn how to stay afloat, wearing full equipment, by taking advantage of Red Cross and other instructional agencies.

TELEPHONE 4251-6

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—Several pitiful renegade American journalists who work for the Axis were indicted recently for treason. More to the point would be a reward for the delivery of Mussolini, dead or alive—preferably dead. The same should be arranged regarding Hitler.

When Italy surrenders, which may not be long now, we shall have the problem of what to do with Mussolini. When Germany surrenders, which is almost certain to occur within the next 12 months, we shall have the problem of what to do with Hitler.

Clapper

It is not too early to decide what we shall do with them. There need be no hair-tearing about this. As a simple, clean-cut way to dispose of one of the lesser problems connected with the end of the war, just shoot them.

No trial is needed. We know they are guilty. They forced war when Chamberlain was begging for peace. Don't allow international law to lay its palsied hand on this business. If the international-law experts get into this nothing will ever happen. Why make it complicated? If you try to exile them, you will have their henchmen trying to help them return from Elba. We should always be having to watch them to guard against escape plots. Shooting is so much simpler. They can be found if we want them. J. Edgar Hoover could get them. In fact it is the job he did on the kidnaping gangsters here in America that suggests to me that the same ruthless extermination should be applied to the gangster in Europe.

What good will it do?

First, it will rid us of the two men who pulled the trigger for this war. Hitler and Mussolini saw the British prime minister and the French premier crawl to Munich begging for peace. Hitler and Mussolini wanted to use war as their method, and they made it war. There can be no argument about war guilt this time. It is right there on the heads of two brutal dictators.

Second, it will be wholesome to show for a change that murder by wholesale is just as intolerable to society as murder in individual cases. We have never been able to see this straight. We shoot Dillinger, whose crimes were trivial misdemeanors compared with the crimes of Hitler and Mussolini. Hitler's predecessor, the kaiser, lost his war, but he moved to Holland, got himself a buxom new wife, and lived out a comfortable old age as a haughty country squire surrounded by luxury and lackeys. Let some kid murder a fellow in a drunken fight and he is executed. When a dictator plans and carries out the murder of hundreds of thousands, he becomes a sacred cow, and you mustn't touch him.

Third, I don't want to see the real problems with which we must deal obscured by a long post-war controversy over what to do with the two head men. We know they will be on our hands. Let's decide now what to do with them and dispose of that business quickly. That will simplify also the task of punishing the lesser criminals. There will have to be a list of those- but you may be sure that nothing can be done about them unless the two head men are promptly shot. You can't punish the little fellows while allowing the top men to retire to a life of ease.

I am not in favor of a Carthaginian peace. I came home by air last week with a German prisoner, a young Luftwaffe lieutenant. He was a pleasant lad and became quite popular among the American army officers on the plane. They made him a short snorter. I have his signature on my bill. I sat beside him in the plane and pointed out the buildings on the New York skyline. The last I saw of him was a rather touching picture. A young American major, coming home from many months in a combat area, went up to the German prisoner to say goodby. They shook hands, saluted, and parted as old friends might have done.

I believe humanity wants war now less than it has ever wanted it. Wars of aggression can be made impossible. It will be a long and difficult task. I can think of no more appropriate beginning than to shoot the two men who began this last one.

QUESTION GIRL IN ODD SLAYING OF DAD, BROTHER

Kentucky Officials Obtain Two Statements But Declare They're at Variance.

BULLETIN

BURLINGTON, Ky.—(U P)—Joan Kiger, 16, was charged formally today with first degree murder for the slaying of her father, Carl C. Kiger, and her brother, Jerry, 6.

(By International News Service)

COVINGTON, Ky.—Police authorities renewed questioning of Joann Kiger today as they attempted to piece together the clues in the murder of the 16-year-old girl's father, Vice Mayor and City Commissioner Carl Kiger and her six-year-old brother.

Officials were trying to determine who fired the 15 shots that killed Kiger and his son, Jerry, and wounded the vice mayor's wife, Jenny, 49.

Signed statements were obtained from Mrs. Kiger and Joann but Sheriff Jake Williams revealed that they were not in accord.

Police admitted that Mrs. Kiger had asked her daughter shortly after the shooting, "Did you have a nightmare and kill your father," but unconfirmed were rumors that Joann had come into her parents' bedroom and said, "There is a crazy man in here and I think I'll kill you and then myself."

A part of the investigation will be a post-mortem examination of Kiger's body, police said, adding that consent had been obtained from the family.

The shots were fired from three 38 caliber revolvers which belonged to Kiger. Two were found in a cistern near the kitchen door of the house. The shooting occurred at the Kiger's summer home in Boone county, Ky.

Joann told police that she was awakened by a noise and her mother's screams. She ran downstairs and obtained two pistols. On returning upstairs, she said she saw the dark figure of an intruder on the landing. Dropping one pistol, she fired the other several times.

Running upstairs she handed the pistol to her mother who lay wounded on the bed beside her dead husband. On instructions from her mother, she summoned Robert Mayo, Kenton county constable.

Eleven of the 15 bullets fired were apparently accounted for but authorities reported they could find no bullets in the range of where the girl said she fired.

BYRNES POLICY HINTS NEW ROW WITH CONGRESS

Father Draft, OPA and Size of Army Expected To Be Principal Issues.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The policies outlined by James F. Byrnes, director of the office of war mobilization, in his nationwide address today forecast a continuation of battles between congress and the administration.

With congress soon to return from its summer recess and get together with constituents, Byrnes outlined a program which contains the germs of bitter conflicts.

The fights are expected to center around drafting of fathers, the size of the armed forces and the continuation of present OPA and food policies.

In warning that "the roads to Tokyo and Berlin are still long, hard and bloody" Byrnes was believed to be indirectly warning congress that the administration will fight moves to defer fathers from the draft.

He carried the indirect warning further by comparing strength of the United Nations and the Axis on the battlefield, and in effect backed the program for armed forces of 11,000,000 men which would include fathers.

The announced determination to hold to the stabilization policy both as to wages and prices forecast a renewal of the battle over subsidizing the consumers' food costs.

Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith (D., S. C.), chairman of the senate agriculture committee, informed colleagues here that he is prepared to call the committee together as soon as congress convenes to launch a new fight against roll-back subsidies. The administration policy was maintained during the early summer only because a presidential veto was sustained.

The warning of a long and bloody war also foreshadowed tightening of the belts of Americans with the possibility of draft-labor legislation being proposed if war production fails to keep pace with needs.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—An old union friend of mine, whose specialty was boycotts and blacklists until he got just filthy rich from being bought off, has been telling me that he has opened up an office in Washington with branches in central points out around the country, organized a staff of old-time smear pamphleteers and word-of-mouth rumorists and gone back to work as a patriotic service.

Pegler

My friend says that the way things are now, why there never was such a need a crying need he calls it (being quite a steady reader of the butchers' paper or bleeding-heart press) for boycotts and he has come out of retirement strictly in the interests of our national morale. His clients this time are not pressure groups, unions or racial or religious factions but his old victims, the big manufacturers and merchants, especially the chain stores. They knew his work in the old days and figured that if anyone could save them he could and put it up to him to forget bygones in the interest of national unity and the war effort and sacrifice his hard-earned ease.

They had tried everything to keep the customers away. They posted signs in their merchandise outlets saying "One to a customer; don't be a hog," "No butter today" and "The customer is never right" but it did no good so, finally, one bright executive who used to fight my old union friend all over the country and call him all kinds of a liar, which he is called on him to help.

My friend hesitated at first, partly from honest confusion, because he couldn't immediately adjust his mind to the idea of a friendly boycott but once it penetrated he stuck out his hand and said he would put forth his best efforts on a cost-minus basis.

"Don't you mean cost-plus?" the executive asked.

"My God, no, I mean minus," said my old union friend. "If I make another dollar, my taxes will run me into the red. If I can run up some expenses to deduct, I might barely get by. Don't think I am being mercenary. After all, a man is entitled to a modest living, isn't he?"

So then they sat down to plan a campaign. The executive who sells nothing said he would have to cut sales at least 60 per cent right away and my union friend just speaking off the end of his tongue without thinking, said "I will have a picket line in front of your New York place this afternoon and I hope to cover you from coast to coast in a week. It will be like old times."

"Picket line" the executive yelled. "You are out of touch, oldtimer. You can't get pickets these days with this manpower shortage. McNutt would slap them all into the army and navy."

My old friend was loaded for that one, however, so he pulled out the new and augmented McNutt list of nondeferrable and nonessential occupations and handed it across the desk.

"Look that over," he said. "See if you see pickets listed there. Picketing is an essential occupation."

"Well, you are out of touch just the same," the executive insisted. "A picket line would jam the place with business. Things have changed. We have got to get a new approach."

The solution was a radio program. First they wanted to try newspaper ads, but the newspapers told them they would have to stand in line on the waiting list for about three weeks and cut their space requirements by two-thirds. The advertising departments were pretty cold anyway, wanting to know if their advertising was really essential and how much space they bought last year so that they could figure their quota.

So, as I said, they went to the air with an advertising plug mooched into a news broadcast three times a day, in which the announcer hammered away on the idea that these clothes were made entirely by union labor and sold by union clerks and the effect was miraculous. Sales went off 25 cent in 24 hours and within a week the situation was thoroughly under control.

For a grocery chain, my friend saved the day by spreading rumors that their butter was all black-market and mostly gear-grease colored with house-paint, their beef was certified laundry-horse and their crab-meat all Japanese and smuggled in by submarine. It worked wonders, too.

And for a newspaper publisher who was swamped with advertising business, my friend started a rumor that the owner was a secret member of the Silver Shirts. It not only saved him but it drove so much business over to his competitor that the competitor went too deep into his white paper allowance and may have to suspend for three months.

BRICKER GIVES PLEDGE OF AID

Tells Cleveland Officials Ohio Will Back Program To Control Defectives.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — The promise of Gov. John W. Bricker to sponsor a concrete program for caring for mentally defectives was held today by Cleveland officials following a conference of city, county and state authorities as the result of slayings admitted by psychopathic Henry Hagert.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche reported that Gov. Bricker, in Cleveland to address a fraternal group, had given positive assurance that such a program will be drafted to supplement the present state facilities which are admittedly unable to provide institutional care for the mentally ill.

Governor Bricker will meet immediately with State Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney to consider proposals made at the meeting, Lausche said.

Cleveland officials specifically recommended that the state lease unused space in the Cleveland City hospital psychopathic building for the housing of potentially dangerous defective delinquents. Use of the Mansfield state reformatory to care for others will be considered further by state officials, Mooney informed the meeting.

"We want to assume our responsibility in the best way we know how," Mooney reported. "God knows we are not proud of our record in this field."

PARALYSIS SPREADS

CHICAGO —(NS)— With 24 new cases reported in Cook county, infantile paralysis in the Chicago area reached epidemic proportions today.

Up and Down THE STREET

Besides the Mansfielders attending the Chamber of Commerce school at Northwestern university, several persons well-known in this vicinity are in Evanston, Ill., for the National institute. Paul Williams, secretary of the Dayton chamber, formerly of Mansfield is one of the instructors of the classes sponsored by the national chamber and the National Association of Commercial Secretaries. Louis Bromfield, author-farmer, will appear on the program Friday. Mansfielders attending the special school are John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the local chamber, and V. H. Lodde secretary of the local merchants' association.

Three Mansfield youths who gained admittance to the Madison theater last night with fake tickets probably will get a chance to explain in county juvenile court why they did it. Using sales tickets issued by a drug store, the trio shoved the ticket taker aside and went into the show. Police were called and when the officers arrived one of the youths fled through a rear exit. The other two were taken to police headquarters and turned over to the county juvenile officer. The two boys who didn't get away gave officers the name of the one who did. The youths were about 16 years old, police said.

HOOKEY OK IF BOYS HAVE JOBS

State Says Student Workers May Stay Out of School With Work Permits.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Thousands of Ohio high school students may play hookey this fall legally.

State Education Director Kenneth C. Ray said today public schools would open in September as usual but under state law student war workers could remain away from the classroom 30 days by obtaining permits to continue their jobs from their local school boards.

The question of delaying the school term had been discussed, Ray said, but he added it would "leave the majority of students idle while a small minority keeps busy on factory or farm jobs." Local boards, however, may postpone the opening or recess school if a critical labor shortage warrants it. Ray said this could be done in rural communities if students are needed to help with fall harvests.

At Port Clinton, Supt. D. D. Sims said students in war jobs might work a month or two after school resumes, possibly attending classes half-days meanwhile.

The Cincinnati board of education promised to work out a plan whereby some 7,000 teen-aged essential job-holders could retain their positions until mid-October. The board previously rejected a war manpower commission proposal that opening of high schools be postponed until Oct. 18.

At Columbus, the board of education lowered age requirements for children starting school. Supt. George F. Roudebush said the regulation would assist working mothers since it allows the enrollment of youngsters two to three months in advance of the present rule.

MOTHER HELD

Charged With Murder Of Widow, Following Confession.

DECATUR, Ill. —(NS)— A 47-year-old mother of six children was held on a murder charge today after confessing police said, that she invited a widow into her home and then beat her to death because she was "running around with my husband."

The prisoner, Mrs. De Etta Ham, made her confession to Fred Leach, assistant state's attorney who ordered her held.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

AS ONE who pleads guilty to a lively curiosity, easily aroused by any number of things, most of which are none of my business, I am amazed and appalled by the indifference displayed by Frank Sinatra for whom the goons swoon, to a matter which would send a less blase lad into a tizzy of palpitating concern.

I refer to the young man named, but not known as Leon Palmer who is currently featured in a 52nd street place, where he is making a career of his remarkable resemblance to the Swoon-light Sinatra. Picked from dozens of slim young men as the visual double for fascinating Frank, Mr. Palmer for the past month has been billed as "The One and Only Hank Sinatra."

Kilgallen

During most of this period, the genuine gent of practically the same name has been not only in the city but in the neighborhood of the cafe where his look-alike is appearing. But not once has the No. 1 Company of Sinatra been moved to look into the Swing Street saloon and investigate his "twin."

Greater nonchalance hath no man.

Speaking of the boys with the love-larynxes as everybody is these days, I have some consoling data to pass along to the men-folk who have been forced to watch their girls collapse with sighs when Dick Haymes gives them the ballads.

Dick is now a contented husband and father, but the wooing and winning of his wife was a task fraught with more complications than you could imagine from what you have heard of these dynamic troubadours. He first met Joanne Marshall when he was singing with Harry James and she was one of the samba sirens on the same bill.

Haymes knew it was the McCoy at first sight, but Joanne was unconvinced and kept brushing him off like a piece of lint. When he finally wangled a dinner date, she stood him up. He followed this with whimsical notes, telegrams and costly blooms, but it was a long tough siege before he began making headway.

I publish this information to cheer those men-folk who think all a crooner needs to do to win a girl is sing the first eight bars of "Night and Day." The glamor boys have their troubles, too.

This may be a minority opinion, but when I saw "For Whom the Bell Tolls," the love scene that impressed me most was not the much-publicized sleeping-bag sequence but rather the earlier moment when Gary Cooper kissed Ingrid Bergman for the first time and they had that charming discussion about what happens to people's noses during a kiss.

I think that ranks with the best love scenes done in Hollywood, and it calls to mind some other tender screen moments. The front-stoop proposal in "Tom, Dick and Harry," for example, which Garson Kanin's direction turned into fine magic. And the more recent stoop scene in "The More the Merrier," in which Joel McCrea's hands took your mind off the dialogue. Then there was the haunting episode in "Cavalcade" in which the lovers play their scene at the rail of a ship that turns out to be the Lusitania, and the garden sequence in Hemingway's earlier love story, "A Farewell to Arms."

Those are the best I can think of.

DOES ITS STUFF

'Big Inch' More Than Making Good, Says Oil Chief.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Big Inch pipe line is "more than making good," acting Petroleum Administrator for War Ralph K. Davies said today.

He announced a record 24-hour test run of 328,000 barrels of Texas crude oil through the western leg of the new pipe line, and said it "vindicated the contention of the designing engineers that the big underground petroleum carrier would have a top capacity of at least 325,000 barrels per day during the warm summer months.

The western leg runs from Longview, Tex., to Norris City, Ill. Oil flowing from Norris City through the eastern leg is expected to reach refineries in the New York harbor area tomorrow.

MOVIES OF WAR FRONTS SHOWN

Rotary Club Entertained With Films at Luncheon Session.

Motion pictures of war action in Russia, North Africa and the southwest Pacific provided the program at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The pictures, which were presented by Adam Brandt, visualized preparations for the Tokyo raid, with takeoffs from the aircraft carrier Hornet; showed phases of the Bismarck sea battle, final stages of the Tunisian campaign and events leading to surrender of Stalingrad by the German invaders.

Edward Sutter was program chairman of the meeting at which Howard Gongwer, president of the club, presided. Group singing was directed by Rev. Glenn Lewis, with Earl Black as pianist. Glenn K. Schooler was introduced as a new member of the club.

My captain leaves for the navy tomorrow.

That's my captain in the Moose golf league, Mike Reif, Coolridge greenskeeper, who has managed to keep the east end links in A-1 condition this summer in spite of the long, wet spring, the difficulty of replacing equipment parts, and other wartime problems faced by the men who manicure the greensward for the niblick swingers.

It took a lot of work to put the Coolridge layout in its present fine shape, and Mike is just the guy who can put out that work stuff.

"When we were just caddies out here," says Dick Gaubatz, "and Fovarque first took this course over, Mike used to come out and work on the greens until one and two o'clock in the morning. Just for fun. He didn't get paid for it.

"He talked me into helping him water greens one night until 2 a. m., but never again. That was too much like work."

Mike says he didn't enlist in the navy. "They told me I was in," says Mike. "They like it better that way." Bon voyage, sailor.

While Mike is taking his boot training for a life on the bounding wave, Joe (Spindle) Kasper will replace him as No. 1 man on the downtrodden Treasurers team, and Harry Smith takes over as greenskeeper. So Mike is replaced, but he won't be forgotten soon by the turf diggers at Coolridge.

And I imagine it won't be long before he is echoing the nostalgic note sent home recently by Junior Huntsman, who has been riding the briny deep for a year and a half.

Says Junior: "I wouldn't even ask to play golf again. All I want is just to look at a golf course."

In the group of Mansfielders reporting for the army Aug. 27 will be Paul Carbetta, featherweight boxer, who is the last of this city's fisticuffers to keep even partially active in the ring game.

After he's in service, Paul hopes he'll be permitted to help out in giving boxing instructions to the soldiers. "There should be a lot more guys in that army needing boxing lessons than there are instructors," is the way he has it doped out.

Although he has passed all the exams for officer's training, ex-Tyger gridder Joe Romano has a long wait before starting that training. Right now he's on maneuvers somewhere in Nebraska.

* * *

Dick Jones is in town.

That's Lt. Richard (Honeyboy) Jones of the field artillery, Fort Sill, Okla.

Last Mansfielders heard of the Honeyboy, one of the most famous of the city's modern crop of boxers, he had his picture in a national magazine, teaching boxing to the troops at Fort Bragg, N.C.

That's been quite a while ago. He's just completed training for his commission in the artillery, and he goes back to camp Friday for another month of schooling.

"I believe I'm in the best shape of my life," says Dick, and he looks it. "That heat at Sill really takes the pounds off you."

PROBLEM SOLVED

WOOSTER, O.—(AP)—The football problem at Wooster college has been solved for this year, officials said, by shifting football-minded naval aviation cadets in a single platoon where they can use their physical education training period for gridiron practice. No regulars from the 1942 team are expected back.

Cops Two Games In One Day

Gornicki Joins List of Baseball Ironmen.

By JOHN CASHMAN
(INS Sports Writer)

ONE of the greatest Horatio Alger stories of the mound was freshly written into the records taoday, as Hank Gornicki of the Pittsburgh Pirates joined the ranks of pitching's iron men, the stalwarts who have won two games in one day. To make the feat not only thrilling but inexplicable, Hank has one of the seediest records in the National league.

* * *

Gornicki's leap into the list including Grover Alexander, who turned the trick twice, and Joe McGinnity, who has three such days to his credit, was accomplished with 8 to 0 and 4 to 3 triumphs over the Boston Braves yesterday, and to cap it all, Nate Andrews was charged with both losses.

* * *

This unusual situation was brought about when both played relief roles in the second game of the double-header.

Gornicki gave six hits in going the route in the opener, which saw the Pirates land on Andrews for five runs in the first game.

In the nightcap, Gornicki relieved starting twirler Xavier Rescigno in the ninth, with score knotted at 3-all, and Andrews relieved Al Javery on the Boston mound in the tenth.

Gornicki was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eleventh when a double by Bill Baker and a single by Pete Coscarat broke the tie.

Gornicki was then credited with his second win and Andrews charged with a dual loss when Rip Sewell set the Braves down in order in the last half of the eleventh.

Thus. Andrews had the misfortune to be the first man to lose two in one day since John Clark dropped a pair with the Phillies in 1927.

The Chicago Cubs whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 7 to 4, with a four-run rally in the eighth, and in doing so took fifth place from the Phillies.

Harry Walker extended his hitting streak to 28 games as the St. Louis Cardinals thrashed the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 3. A dozen hits rattled off the bats of the Cards, including three triples and Whitey Kurowski's homer.

Eight runs in the last two innings gave the Cincinnati Reds a 10 to 4 victory over the New York Giants. The Reds went into the eighth with a two-run defeat, then scored five in that frame and three in the next.

The Philadelphia A's extended their losing streak to 11 straight as they dropped one to the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3. The victory put the Tigers in a tie for third place in the American league with the Cleveland Indians.

Johnny Niggeling ended his own six-game losing streak and that of the St. Louis Browns by pitching five-hit ball to lead the Brownies to a 4 to 1 win over the Boston Red Sox. Charged with the loss was Tex Hughson, who has not won ne game in the west this season.

Charley Wensloff pitched a five-hit triumph for the New York Yankees, who whipped the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 2. The Sox saw a two run lead wiped out in the fifth as the Yanks got two runs on three hits and Wally Moses' error. In the eighth a walk, Moses' second error, and Wensloff's single filled the sacks, whereupon Bucky Ross walked in the winning run.

Musial, Appling Cling to Margin

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stan Musial of the St Louis Cardinals and Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox are holding determinedly onto the batting leadership of the two major leagues.

During the last week Appling, veteran shortstop, passed the 2,000 hit mark coveted by most long-time players in the major leagues and raised his batting average three points to .336 to continue nine points in front of rookie Dick Wakefield of Detroit at the top of the American league.

Int he National league Musial, star outfielder of the world champion Cardinals, also boosted his average eight points to .353 and maintained a big advantage over his closest rival, Billy Herman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who came out of his slump sufficiently to gain seven points and a .325 percentage.

* * *

Much of the interest in the senior circuit, however, centered on the 27-game batting streak of Harry Walker of the Cardinals, who failed to make the select society of top hitters by one point.

SOLDIERS WIN

WICHITA, Kan. —(AP)— Camp Campbell's 20th Division team of Kentucky beat the Sharpsburg, O., Speeds 16 to 9 last night in the national semipro baseball tournament. The soldiers completed a 7-inning game by scoring 10 runs in the seventh.

PROVIDENTS LOSE IN DISTRICT MEET

Mansfield Provident Loan girls were eliminated from the district softball tournament at Oberlin last night by North Ridgeville 10-2, after dropping a 17-3 decision Monday night to the same team. Monday they got only two hits, by Florence Biddinger and Vera Messmore. Last night Ev Jocha and Whitie Cassel each got two hits.

Jocha and Tipul will play with the Ridgeville team in the state tournament at Columbus, starting a week from Friday. Jocha got a bruised leg in a collision with the Ridgeville second sacker last night.

45 Champions Tee Off In Pro-Amateur Event.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Many of America's best golfers polished up their shots today in preparation for the first annual Chicago victory national pro-amateur tournament opening tomorrow at the Beverly Country club.

First competition on the four-day program for the high-powered field of invited stars will be a 36-hole best ball battle in which 31 pro-amateur teams will fight it out for daimond-studded gold medals and a leg on the new Thomas G. McMahon trophy.

McMahon, president of the Chicago District Golf association which is sponsoring the event, said the trophy would go to the player sharing it three times.

Friday, the cream of the crop, 45 players who have won major golf victories, will tee off in the quest for the victory national open title, a 72-hole medal play competition which has drawn the fastest field of the 1943 golf season.

The entire field will battle over 18 holes Friday and Saturday withe the 36-hole finals set for Sunday.

Favorite contenders in tomorrow's pro-amateur event are three teams featuring service men. They are Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., individually favored to win the victory national title, and Frankie Stranahan, Toledo amateur representing the army air center of Nashville, Tenn.; Lieut. (J. G.) Lawson Little of the Hutchinson, Kan., naval base and Steve Kovach, Pittsburgh, Pa., amateur; and Pvt. Chick Harbert of Camp Grant, Ill., Young, Battle Creek, Mich., pro, and his amateur partner, Dale Morey of Martinsville, Ind., recent winner of the all-American amateur title.

The half-uniformed teams, however, will face strong competition from the civilian ranks. Favorite civilian teams are Tommy Armour and Art Doering of Chicago; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis.; Sam Byrd of Philadelphia and Bob Cochran of St. Louis; Jimmy Demaret and Chuck Kocsis of Detroit; and Harold "Jug" McSpaden and Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia.

* * *

All prices for the big tournament will be in war bonds, with the winner getting a $1,000 bond. Net proceeds for the event will go to the wounded veterans of World war II from this area.

Second Haegg Record Falls

Andersson Sets New 1500 Meter Mark.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Gunder Haegg, Swedish running star, expressed no surprise today when informed that his fellow countryman, Arne Andersson, had broken his world record for the 1500 meter distance with a 3:45 mark in Sweden yesterday.

* * *

"I had only waited for the time when it would be broken," Haegg told the United Press, "and I am very glad it was Arne Andersson who did it. He's a very good friend."

Andersson is a 27-year-old Swedish school teacher who was scarcely known outside his own country until Haegg started his tour of the United States. The mark he set yesterday shaved eight-tenths of a second off the record Haegg established in Sweden last July and was the second of Haegg's marks he has cracked within the past two months. On July 1, he reduced Haegg's 4:04.6 record for the mile to 4:02.6.

Haegg recently completed an all-victorious eight-race tour of this nation and now is awaiting air passage to Sweden, where he set seven world marks last year. He hopes to get back in time to compete against Andersson before the close of the Swedish track season in early October.

KERN NAMED COACH OF DEL MONTE TEAM

DEL MONTE, Cal. —(U.P.)— The appointment of Lieut. William F. Kern, former All-America tackle on Pittsburgh's 1928 Rose bowl team, as coach at the navy preflight school here was announced today.

Kern formerly was head football coach at Carnegie Tech and West Virginia university.

TAKES TITLE

TOLEDO —(AP)— Fifteen-year-old Leo Biagetti of Sandusky beat 62 other players to win the Toledo district junior golf championship with 310 for the 72 holes of medal play. He was the youngest player ever to win the title.

Call This Dizzy at $12,000 a Year?

"The one and only" Dizzy Dean was snapped in his St. Louis broadcasting booth with the Cardinals trailing. He's not showing much enthusiasm in the picture at the left. But at the right, Jerome Hanna Dean tries to root and eat at the same time as the Red Birds put on one of their famous rallies.

By EDWARD S. KITCH

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Dizzy Dean is still pitching—but not from a major league mound. He's throwing his best Texas lingo from a radio broadcasting booth announcing play-by-play accounts of Cardinal and Brown's home games.

The "Me" of the "Me and Paul" Dean combination of the 1934 gas house gang now is a voice personality to baseball fans. His technique has brought him new fans as well as the old ones who remember when Dizzy starred for Frankie Frisch's Cardinals, 1934 World Series victors over Detroit.

The sponsor's announcer, J. Taylor Grant, introduces him as: "The one and only, the great one, broadcasting in his original style; and here he is Dizzy Dean." Diz receives $12,000 a season from the brewery which hires him.

* * *

Dean's broadcasting partner, Johnnie O'Hara, not only assists in alternating innings, but also suggests words, one that might sound better than Dean emits. Last year Johnnie suggested "intestinal fortitude." Dean rebeled with "Oh, I don't like those high soundin' words, Johnnie, that's just a fancy word for just plain guts."

The one that really put the radio fans back in their seats was: "He's out on a foul ball and the runners go back to their respectable bases."

An element of suspense is present in Dean's delivery and to hear him you would think he was announcing a soap opera serial. "Now, with Musial on first, what will happen? Will Kurowski bunt? Will Southworth ask for a hit? Or will they walk him? I'll tell you what I'd do, I'd tell the pitcher to give him one right through the middle. 'cause, brother, we need them runs."

A heavy eater, Dean munches most of the time. His weakness is hot dogs. Should he be enjoying a snack when it is his turn to take over, he requests, "Here Johnnie, take care of this next hitter while I finish this here hot dog, will yo?"

* * *

Mildly superstitious, Dean carries his pet beliefs to the radio booth. Sometimes, he takes a great deal of credence in their unample, last year a fan sent him a seen working powers. For exbriar pipe with instructions to smoke it when the Cardinals were at bat to put the "charm" on their hitting. Dizzy thought that was a great idea—and there might be something to it—the Cardinals were world champions in 1942.

Dean is always prepared to defend a fellow pitcher. "Ed Smith hits and that puts the White Sox out in front one to nuthin', and they tell me a pitcher can't hit."

During an argument on the field there usually is a lull and O'Hara might ask Dean what the umpire said to the player. Dean answers: "Well I can't tell ya over the air, brother, but come outside the booth and I'll tell ya."

O'Hara often pokes fun at Dizzy and once said: "You ought to try some snake oil on your arm. Maybe it would help you."

"Well, I'll tell ya, Johnnie," answers Dean, "once you hurt your arm, brother, there ain't nuthin' you can do for it."

SPRINGFIELD TEAM GOES TO NATIONALS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(AP)— Springfield, Ohio's team won its way into the American Legion junior baseball sectional eliminations by defeating Belle, 6 to 1, in the regional tournament here yesterday.

The Ohio nine went through the regional event without a defeat. In addition to Belle, the Buckeye club knocked over Louisville, Ky., 3-1, and whipped Washington, D. C., 8-4.

BROOKLYN BUYS NEW ORLEANS STAR

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, announced today that he had purchased Infielder Bill Hart from New Orleans of the Southern Association.

The infielder is hitting .320 now, Rickey said, and leads the Association with 15 home runs and 96 runs batted in. He is 28 years old and batted .292 last season.

Tribe Opens Yank Series

Share Third Place With Tigers on Off Day.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians, whose idleness yesterday resulted in Detroit moving up to share their third-place berth, open a five-game series with the New York Yankees today in a morning-matinee doubleheader.

* * *

The Tigers won from Philadelphia and moved even with the Indians, eleven games off the pace, one full game back of the Washington Nationals.

BOSTON — (AP) — Riding the crest of a six-game winning streak, the Cincinnati Reds arrived here for a double-header with the Boston Braves today.

The Reds left New York and the Polo grounds last night in happy spirits and with a half-game grip on second place in the National league. The Reds completed sweeping the four-game series from the New York Giants by a 10 to 4 victory yesterday afternoon. The Giants, in their customary Alphonse and Gaston manner, gave the game to the Cincinnati athletes after riding into the eighth inning sporting a two-run advantage in a 4 to 2 score.

Five runs were marked up for the Reds in the eighth and it all started on Dick Bartell's bobble of Tipton's double-play ball.

Frank McCormick lined out a single, a double and a homer in five trips to the plate.

LEGION CHALLENGES ATHLETIC SUPPLIES

American Legion baseball players, runner-up team in the Commercial league, still are not convinced. They believe they can beat the championship Athletic Supplies, and have challenged them to a game Sunday afternoon at Liberty park. They're counting on Lefty Cochrane to turn in the win.

"We'll beat 'em again, and with Jack Hammett pitching," says Manager Red Hamman of the Athletics, who brought Lamb from Galion to hurl the pennant winner last Sunday.

Should Get New Grocer

Bobo Falls Short on Vitamins, Calories.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—It is difficult to reconcile the two current charges against big Bobo Newsom: (a) six St. Louis pitching defeats, and (b) $935 worth of groceries.

* * *

Bobo, the meandering monologist, hasn't won a game since his stormy transfer from Brooklyn to the Browns on July 18. His mound record with St. Louis indicates that he is lacking in vitamins, calories and kinetic energy—that he is weaker than a dieting angora.

Despite this display of debility, H. J. Redfearn of Hartsville, S. C. (Bobo's home town), is suing the 34-year-old right hander on a $935 grocery bill of this year's vintage. Counsel for Grocer Redfearn certainly will reject any prospective juror who has seen Newsom in a Brownie uniform.

Only once since donning Don Barnes' silks did the Carolina "loudspeaker" act like a man fueled with sufficient fodder—and then briefly. That was on July 24, at Boston, when struck by Oscar Judd's line drive. Dauntless and dentless Bobo kept right on pitching for the rest of that fifth inning. Only the fact that the ball struck him in the head prevented serious injury. However, his valor went for naught, because the Red Sox immediately banged him for another single and a home run, wrapping up his second American league defeat of the season.

Bobo's failure with St. Louis was unexpected. He was the Dodgers' leading pitcher, with nine victories and four defeats this season, when booted out of Brooklyn by Messrs. Rickey and Durocher for insubordination. Moreover, he announced upon reluctant arrival in the Missouri metropolis, "I'll pitch the Browns to the pennant."

His tailspin could not have been caused by the mere shift to a Brownie suit, for Louis Norman Newsom already had a leg on the game's uniform-changing championship, having made 19 transfers since entering organized baseball in 1928. He had traveled about like a one-man road show.

* * *

But slump he did. In his first game at St. Louis, against the Indians, he was combed for six hits and seven runs before Manager Luke Sewell mercifully waved him to the showers in the third inning. Since then, he has lost five of six starts and failed to finish the other—which was lost by a mound mate. On Monday, the Red Sox tagged him with his sixth American defeat.

Louis Trains for Army Camp Tour

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— St. Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, opened training at Ft. George Meade, Md., today for his forthcoming tour of army camps in this country and abroad.

Regularly assigned to Ft. Riley, Kan., Louis will remain at Ft. Meade until the start of the tour, now scheduled for Aug. 30.

Accompanying the champion on the trip will be Sugar Ray Robinson, former top ranking welterweight contender, now in the army, who will tour under his real name, Corp. Walter Smith. First Sgt. George Nicholson, boxing instructor at Mitchel Field, N. Y., and former sparring partner of Louis,' will also make the trip.

Buckeyes Receive Warning

Told To Report In Shape If They Want To Play.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A rigorous training schedule — keynoted to the battle cry "beat Michigan" —awaits candidates for Ohio State university's 1943 football squad.

Coach Paul E. Brown has warned prospective wearers of the scarlet and gray they should come prepared to take it—and later to dish it out to Michigan —when they report for practice Aug. 30.

* * *

Fifty freshmen and five 4-F veterans of last year's Big Ten championship team have received invitations to appear at the stadium for physical examinations and to receive uniforms. Actual practice starts Sept. 1.

"A great experience awaits you and you must be at your best both physically and mentally, to meet it," Brown told squad candidates in his invitational letter.

"If you report out of condition, you simply do not represent our type of man and we cannot use you. Football is important to the type of men we are looking for."

Brown added:

"In our last game on Nov. 20, we play Michigan—the big game of the year to us. We would rather lick them than all the rest of our opponents put together. We will be greatly outmanned in this game. Plan to be at your absolute best this day—think about it—set your hearts to it—plan on it. We must get there by being well knit and fighting for our lives."

The Sept. 25 opener is against the Iowa Seahawks.

Skidding Brewers Slap on Brakes

(By Associated Press)

The skidding Milwaukee Brewers put on the brakes last night, repulsed Columbus' bid for a share of first place in the American Association race and bosted their own lead to two full games.

* * *

The Brewers had lost eight of their last 10 games going into last night's series opener with Columbus and were trailing the Redbirds 2-0 in the eighth when Hal Peck connected for a pinch triple to score two runs. He came in with the winning run on a Columbus error.

* * *

The resurging Indianapolis Indians scored their fourth straight double header victory in a week, defeating St. Paul, 4-2 and 2-1. Minneapolis also won a twin bill, stopping Louisville, 5-1 and 12-6.

The Kansas City Blues nosed out Toledo in the first game of a doubleheader, 2-1, but lost the second by the same score.

MAP NEW MOVE ON REQUEST FOR CITY PAY BOOST

Employes of City, Backed By Organized Labor, Meet at CIO Hall Tonight.

City employes, with the backing of organized labor, will meet tonight to map their next move in their campaign for more pay to meet rising living costs, Fire Capt. F. R. Stahl, chairman of the employe's committee, said today.

Set up by the joint executive board of the AFL and CIO, tonight's session at the CIO hall will be open to city officials and employes and any other persons interested in the salary boost question, Stahl said. The meeting will open at 7:30 p. m.

"The only way we are going to get raises is to get council to reconsider our request for more pay, and that's what we are going to try to do," Stahl said.

Meeting as a unit committee last week, council ducked action on the request for pay increases, Chairman C. N. Shultz of the council committee explaining that it would be so near the end of the year before the increases could go into effect that members of council decided to defer action until the 1944 budget is set up.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley explained later that council must have referred to the 1944 appropriation instead, since next year's budget has already been prepared and turned over to the county budget commission: The operating appropriations are made early in the year for the year in which the money will be spent.

The move for pay increases started with a request for $35 more per month for the police and fire departments. Other city employes later joined in the request.

CITY FIREMEN GET INSURANCE

Crestline Council Approves Plan To Give Protection on Fire Calls.

CRESTLINE—At a meeting of city council Monday evening a resolution was passed allowing insurance to Crestline firemen for injury on calls answered by the men out of their territory.

It was reported that no bids had been received in response to the advertisement of council on a new police cruiser and the matter was tabled until the next meeting.

The street committee was advised to investigate and report at the next meeting all bad places in sidewalks about the city.

An ordinance was passed for flushing and cleaning sewers and the cost for same was set at $1,- plus labor time.

Clerk Marie Schill was instructed to get in touch with Charles Thomas of the Reserve Power and Light Company, and have a check made of the lights at Hamilton park.

Mayor C. W. Kindinger presided for the meeting and the pay ordinance amounted to $403.08.

5,000 Jam Ohio For 4 Shows Put On by Abe Lyman

Presenting a mixed program of sweet and swing music, Abe Lyman and his Californians orchestra played to capacity crowds at all four shows yesterday at the Ohio, according to Grattan Johnston, Ohio manager.

Approximately 5,000 Mansfielders heard the famous Lyman aggregation, close to an all-time record attendance for the theater

A popular feature of the last show was the finals in the "Sing a Song with Lyman" contest in which two young Mansfield singers, Jeanne Beard and Louise Turner, tied for first place. Miss Beard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Beard, 163 Western avenue, and Miss Turner the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R Turner, 136 Rae avenue. Both girls received $10 in war stamps.

Featured vocalists with the band were Rose Blane, Frankie Connors and Jack Marlowe.

Bob Evans and his ventriloquism act added a touch of comedy to the show and Lane and Ward's comedy dance routine also went over in a big way.

Lyman was generous in his praise for Mansfield calling it "one of the best towns we've visited." He said he hopes to bring the band back for a return engagement in the near future.

NURSE TRAINING DEADLINE SET

Cadets Have Until Sept. 1 To Register For Class Opening Oct. 1.

Mansfield young women who want to start their cadet nurses' training at General hospital must register at civilian defense headquarters in the city building by Sept. 1 to enter the Oct. 1 class at the hospital, Mrs. John Pierce, OCD war services head, pointed out today.

She said a number of inquiries about the training have already been received, indicating a growing interest in the courses offered by the federal government.

The cadets receive pay from the government while they are training for jobs in hospitals at home to replace the nurses who have entered the armed forces. The training period usually lasts from 24 to 30 months.

The Oct. 1 class is expected to be the only one that will be started during the next year in Mansfield, although hospitals in larger cities will have a winter class, which will start about Feb. 1.

Women from 18 to 35 who have high school education and can meet the physical requirements are eligible for the cadet training.

MANSFIELDERS GET WORD FROM SON, PRISONER OF JAPANESE

The postman was never more welcome at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Grassick, 331 East Fourth street than he was today.

In today's mail he brought a letter from their son, Paul, a prisoner of the Japanese in the Philippines. It was the first they had received word from him in 16 months except for the war department message that he was a prisoner last June.

"When I saw the letter I didn't know what to do. I knew it was Paul's handwriting and I was so excited I could hardly open the envelope," Mrs. Grassick said.

In the letter Pfc. Grassick told his mother his condition was good and that through the kindness of the Japanese he had been permitted to write one letter.

When she read that he wanted her to send concentrated food, Mrs. Grassick thought this a stroke of luck because Monday she had received word from the war department that she could now send her son a package.

Pfc. Grassick told his family in his letter home that he hoped they were all well and he thinks of home often.

The letter had no date and had been censored by the Japanese, Mrs. Grassick said. This is the first letter he has been able to write to his family since February, 1942.

Pfc. Grassick entered the service January 27, 1941 and was sent out of the country Nov. 20, 1941. His parents received record that he was a prisoner June 19, 1943.

He has two brothers, Robert and William. Neither of them are in the service.

NEW DELAY

Trial of Delinquency Case To Be Before Jury.

Another continuation of the case of Jack Theohor, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors, was granted today by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer when Theohor asked for a jury trial.

Originally set for Aug. 11, the hearing was continued until today because James V. Will, Theohor's attorney, was in common pleas court, taking part in another trial. Subpoenas were put out yesterday for the hearing today and cancelled when the petition for jury trial was entered by Will.

Theohor is accused of selling beer to five boys between the ages of 14 and 17 who were arrested and brought to juvenile court last month. If found guilty his liquor license will be revoked in addition to any sentence he may receive.

Judge Cramer said the date for the trial would be set as soon as arrangements had been made to use the common pleas court room.

REPORT DAMAGE

Rome Reports Celebrated Opera House at Milan Destroyed.

(By Associated Press)

The Rome radio reported today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press an official Italian announcement that the celebrated La Scala opera house in Milan was destroyed during the British air raid Sunday.

Built in 1778 on the site of a church, the Teatro Della Scalla seated 3,600 spectators and had an interesting museum.

SERVICES SET

WILLARD — Plans have been announced for union Sunday morning church services for the Presbyterian and Grace Methodist congregations.

Rev. Homer A. Neff will speak in Grace Methodist church next Sunday. The following week Rev. A. L. Baker will be speaker at the Presbyterian church.

CALLS SICILIAN CLEA-UP REAL ALLIED VICTORY

Eisenhower Praises His Troops as 'Best Fighting Men In the World.'

By CLINTON GREEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — (INS) — The Sicilian campaign constituted a "real victory" over the Axis, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today as he praised Allied fighting men as "the best in the world."

Commenting on the triumphant conclusion of the campaign, the American-born commander of all United Nations forces in the Mediterranean theater, said:

"We have actually killed or captured lots of enemy troops. Our troops have done a splendid job. We added to our protection of the Mediterranean, secured ourselves new air bases and damaged enemy morale."

Gen. Eisenhower pointed out that closer co-ordination of air, land and sea forces again had achieved excellent results. The engineering detachments, especially, he added, had earned unstinting praise through their "momentous achievements."

"Only through the engineers has the end of the campaign come so quickly," he said. "Their work has been magnificent."

During the entire Sicilian struggle the Allies lost only 130 tanks and 251 guns, including those sunk at sea, he added.

In contrast, enemy losses in both men and equipment are far higher than ours. While Allied casualties totaled some 25,000 men killed, wounded and missing, Axis losses total 167,000 killed, wounded and prisoners. Up to Aug. 10 at least 32,000 captives were taken in the Allied advance while from July 1 to Aug. 17 the enemy lost 1,591 planes against only 247 Allied aircraft.

Up to Aug. 10 the Axis lost 26,502 guns and large stocks of other military equipment, most of which has not yet been sorted and counted.

GETS RAIL PROMOTION

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ross S. Marshall has been promoted to senior vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. He previously was vice president of the C. & O. and the subsidiary Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette railroads.

SON MISSING

William H. Rogers reported to sheriff's deputies late yesterday afternoon the disappearance of his son, Kenneth, 13, from the family home opposite Walker Lake drive about 11 a. m. Sunday.

He said the boy was wearing blue trousers, a blue striped shirt and no hat when he was last seen. This is not the first time the boy has left home, the father said.

Canning Center Lacks Patronage On Opening Day

Mansfield's first public canning center was almost without business on its opening day yesterday at John Simpson Junior high school, although more than 200 Mansfield women had indicated their interest in the center before it went into operation.

Because of the lack of interest, Mrs. John Pierce, OCD war services head, said the center will be open only two days a week until further notice. It will be in operation again Friday and next Tuesday.

Housewives with fruit or vegetables to pack were urged to make reservations for using the center by calling civilian defense headquarters in the city building. The equipment will be moved to any section of the city for a day at a time if enough women register to make it worthwhile to take the pressure cookers to community schools or parks, Mrs. Pierce said.

The center can be reached at the John Simpson building by driving in the alley back of the building and going to the door near the west end of the school, it was said.

Amazing Way for "RUN-DOWN" people to get NEW VITALITY..PEP!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you to overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness, poor complexion!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS RICH, RED-BLOOD you should enjoy that sense of well being which denotes physical fitness . . . mental alertness!

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S. Co.

WOULDN'T YOU PAY 90c FOR $50?...

Bills and taxes were mighty high for this railroad man last month. And he was mighty blue. He needed fifty dollars to see him through. So he stopped at The City Loan. Well, you can imagine his surprise when he got the money without a penny cost for ten days' time. That's right! The first ten days are always free at The City Loan. He repaid his loan in 30 days at a cost of only 90 cents.

"Maybe you need only $10. Maybe as much as $1000. It's up to you. Repay in a week or a year. The first 10 days are always free. Tell me how much you need."

TOLD OF DEATM

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Jesse Seiple, the former Lillian McCreary, 45, at Flower hospital in Toledo, Aug. 9.

A former Mansfielder, she was the daughter of the late J. H. McCreary. The family left Mansfield in 1915 and moved to Bowling Green. Mrs. Seiple was born in Pittsburgh, March 21, 1898, and married Jesse Seiple in 1918.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. J. H. McCreary, her husband, and a sister, Mrs. Ray S. Foster, of Bowling Green.

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example: A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

MIXED PRICES RULE LIST IN STOCK MARKET

Wholesale Trade Volume For Nation Increased 6 Per Cent Over '42.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Prices were mixed in the stock market in today's early dealings.

At a slow opening fractionally higher prices were paid for du-pont, Allied Chemical, Deere and Goodrich, the last named starting with a 1,300-share transaction. Quotations were a bit lower for Chrysler, Wool-worth and Standard Oil (N.J.)

Boardroom attention was given the commerce department report showing wholesale trade volume in the first six months of 1943 amounted to $49,100,000,000, a gain of 6 per cent over the simi-lar 1942 period.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Gains scored fractional gains at the opening to-day. There was some mill buy-ing in wheat and short covering in rye.

Wheat started unchanged to ⅛ higher, September $1.43⅜-½, De-cember $1.45⅝-¾, and rye was ¼ to ⅜ higher. September 96⅞-97.

THEATERS

Abbott and Costello

On the screen, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, currently seen in "Hit the Ice" at the Ohio, are zanies. In reality, they are shrewd, hard-headed business men. Few comedy teams have enjoyed such financial success in so short a time as has this team. They haven't been active lately, however. Costello was recently stricken with an at-tack of paralysis which made it necessary to cancel their weekly radio show and further picture offers. The little laugh maker is reported on the road to recovery and may soon be able to return. Abbott and Costello have made 11 pictures and it is reported that "Hit the Ice" is one of their best.

Black Market Rustlers

"Black Market Rustlers," cur-rently showing at the Park, is a story of immediate present, since it deals with a subject currently of great importance in its rela-tion to the lives of the American public. Ray Corrigan, Dennis Moore and Max Terhune play the featured roles and they are dele-gated by the government to move against a frontier gang supplying meat to the black market. Park co-attraction features William Bendix, Joe Sawyer (of Doubleday and Ames fame) and Marjorie Woodworth.

Laurel and Hardy

Like Old Man River, Laurel and Hardy just keep rolling on. To-gether since 1924, the two com-edians' latest picture is "Jitter-bugs," now at the Madison. In this film, the two are cast as way-faring maestros of jive. As the picture opens, they are in the mid-dle of a lonely desert where they are taken in by a fast-talking shicker who gets them to go into partnership with him. In New Orleans they get jobs aboard a show boat where they beat out their own special brand of music. Madison co-feature is "Tonight We Raid Calais."

LOSES CHECK

Mansfielder Then Finds Paper Had Already Been Cashed.

Clyde E. Strine, 86 East Fourth street, today sought the help of police in locating the person he accuses of stealing his $37.50 gov-ernment check and cashing it at a tavern.

Strine told detectives that he went to a Mansfield bank and found his check had been cash-ed although he did not receive the money for it. Officers learn-ed that a tavern proprietor had first cashed the check for a man whose name he couldn't remember. It was then traced to the bank.

Police also were checking the theft of $5 last night from a fill-ing station at Bowman and Springmill streets. The attendant suspects a youth who came into the station early in the evening and asked permission to wash his hands, officers said.

OFF TO NAVY

SAME AMERICAN OUTFIT SEIZES CITY OF MESSINA

Captors of Palermo Repeat Their Feat Without a Shot Being Fired.

William Hunt of Doyleston, Ohio, Edward Johnson of Kane, Pa., and Jack Miller of Akron.

We started to walk toward the city, 10 miles away—the road was still mined—under the bright light of a full moon, hopping along the highway to keep within the sha-dows as long as possible to avoid detection by the enemy.

A little further along, some six miles from Messina, we came upon the leading elements of the patrol, which turned out to be the same one I had ac-companied into Palermo. They had been fired on and were ex-hausted, but they quickly con-sented to join us in our pil-grimage to Messina. They said I was their luck charm—and I felt much more comfortable with their added protection.

Slowly we wormed our way along the winding road to Mes-sina, our sore feet making our progress extremely slow and sporadic sniping and machinegun fire not helping us along particu-larly.

As we neared the city, dawn was breaking but the moon was still up. At 6:10 a. m. we crossed the city limits and met the pathe-tic scene of a semi-dead city, with rubble-littered streets, gaping holes in buildings and the razed harbor.

We met sullen-looking, sleepy-eyed Italians and an occasional hateful stare. I was puzzled that there was no welcome. I inquired and found out they thought we were Germans try-ing to make a getaway to Italy. I set that straight and the word was passed around like a flash.

We hit the city's center at 6:30 a. m. and viewed the graveyard of a score or more ships buried and half-buried in the harbor. We went to the Messina police sta-tion and thence to the military command headquarters, where we also found the city's civilian offi-cials. Both groups agreed on un-conditional surrender.

The last scene of the Sicilian drama was enacted at a crossroads of the "ridge road" and the Mes-sina highway. Here I handed over the Italian commander's gun to General Truscott. Present was Maj. Gen. Keyes.

While the Italian officer was agreeing to surrender terms, Gen-eral Patton arrived. I did the in-troducing while cameras clicked and the Italian and American commanders saluted. Act one of the surrender was over.

But there was to be a second later. The vice-perfect and the police chief offered to turn over Messina to Patton.

We hurried back in time to catch the meeting of American and British troops at 9:15 a. m. in front of the demolished governor's palace. The Sicilians were now crowding the streets, crying and cheering and heaping roses on us.

The first Britisher to enter the city was Lieut. Col. John M. F. F. Churchill, leading the Commando unit which landed eight miles south of Messina Monday with him were eight tanks and 600 men.

An English brigadier general shook hands with an American brigadier general. Then Patton arrived. A parade of cars moved up to the temporary city hall, a small circle formed around Patton and he took over the city. He turned it over to General Truscott, who in turn gave it to an Amer-ican brigadier general—all this while Italian guns from the main-land were laying down a barrage against their own people.

But the Calabrian guns didn't roar for long. Our planes pounced on them with tons of high ex-plosives.

first room for a snack bar, tables and chairs. In the second room the youngsters will dance to a nickleodian which will run con-tinuously. Though the third room will not be put into use when the center is first opened, Balyeat said the group hoped to be able to set up ping-pong tables there later.

"Within the next few days we will contact John Simpson Junior high, Johnny Appleseed Junior high, Senior high, and Madison high to ask officials there to ap-point two pupils each to a coun-cil which will work with J. A. C officers in drawing up rules and regulations," Balyeat said.

He outlined the plans for the center and said it would be open to pupils in the last four grades of school, ninth to 12th inclusive. When the center gets into opera-tion, a school will get more rep-resentatives on the governing council according to the number of tickets sold in that school.

TWO FINED ON DRIVING COUNTS

Two motorists were fined in Mansfield municipal court this morning, one on a charge of driv-ing with insufficient brakes and the other on a charge of operat-ing a motorcycle without license plates.

Another motorist, Anthony De-Luca, Akron, signed a waiver and posted $16.30 bond after he was arrested by state patrolmen for driving 75 miles per hour on U. S. Route 42 yesterday.

Murrell Simpson, Logan road, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of operating his motor-cycle without license plates. He was arrested on U. S. Route 42.

Arrested Aug. 8 on a charge of operating his automobile with in-sufficient brakes, Thomas D. Gra-ham, Bellville, was fined $10 and costs this morning.

ALLIED ARMIES GIRD FOR NEW BLOW AT AXIS

Eisenhower Predicts Powerful Assault, Sets Axis Loss In Sicily at 167,000.

Poix, France; the rail terminal at Calais; airfields in Holland and Belgium; Cape Bonifati and Port Scalea on the Italian mainland; the harbor of Preveza, Greece, and shipping in the Aegean sea.

U. S. Fortresses also strung heavy bombs across a park of 150 German planes near Marseille, it was announced.

An Italian communique said Allied raiders also pounded the region of Naples, Italy's biggest port, inflicting damage of "some importance." The communique said 198 persons had been killed and 1,096 injured in three recent raids on Milan.

Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said Allied warplanes kept up their heavy attack on the beaten German and Italian armies yesterday, making repeated sweeps over the Strait of Messina and the Italian mainland.

Countering Berlin's boast that all German and Italian troops had been evacuated from Sicily with full equipment, dispatches from Allied headquarters said the fleeing Axis armies left behind great stockpiles of weapons, munitions and other paraphernalia.

Early estimates of the Axis debacle indicated that at least 140,000 enemy combat troops were taken prisoner, making a total of approximately 500,000 Germans and Italians captured in the Sicilian and Tunisian campaigns.

Separated only by the two-mile-wide Strait of Messina, Allied and Axis gunners dueled at close range, with American "Long Tom" 155-mm. rifles pumping round after round of shells into the enemy's coastal defenses while American, British and Canadian troops gathered for the next step—invasion of the European mainland.

Reds Stop Strong Nazi Counter-Attack

MOSCOW —(AP)— The German command has mounted powerful counter attacks with troops, tanks and planes at two points on the Kharkov front, but Russian lines held firm, battlefront dispatches reported today.

Seeking an opening for a counter-offensive, the Germans struck at a settlement west of Kharkov held by the Red Army, and along the water line where the Russians maintained a bridgehead on the west bank, the dispatches said.

The fourth battle of Kharkov—which has been taken once by the Red Army and twice by the Germans—became a tug-of-war for the initiative.

Two other Russian drives in the Bryansk and Spas Demensk sectors to the north also met tougher going.

(German broadcasts declared the Soviets were attacking all along the winding battlefront, staging new attacks in the Izyum area in the Donets Basin southeast of Kharkov, and local assaults near Staraya Russ and the Neva sector near Leningrad on the northern front. Russian attacks near Izyum were broken after heavy fighting, Berlin declared.)

Pushed back within 19 miles of the central front bastion of Bryansk, the Germans were using reserves of tanks and planes in stubborn defense there.

(A British radio broadcast heard by CBS said the Red Army was within 12 miles of Bryansk.)

Germans Frankly Hint At Nazi Overthrow

NEW YORK —(INS)— Informed observers were puzzled today at the frankness of a German propaganda broadcast last night which hinted that the German people may be ready to throw over their Nazi masters.

A German commentator, in broadcasts heard by both CBS and NBC, declared that "it is quite possible that the suffering, sacrifices and reverses of recent months have also chastened German extremists and made the people generally better disposed to accept a practical, workable and just peace."

Peace feelers from the Nazis are not new, but references to "German extremists" are a distinct innovation in Nazi propaganda broadcasts.

See French Attacks As Invasion Prelude

STOCKHOLM —(AP)— Germans view the heavy assaults on French air fields by great fleets of American four-engined bombers as a prelude to the invasion of France, Berlin dispatches reported today.

While the RAF continued its mighty aerial offensive against Germany, the Nazis were reported watching with mounting concern not only the Fortress raids on air fields but the tightening circle of heavy American attacks against the heart of Germany herself.

The Berlin correspondent of Svenska Dagbladet said the Germans knew the blows against air fields in the vicinity of Marseille yesterday and on the north coast of France the previous day "must be connected with higher military strategy dealing with the start of another European front."

American daylight bombings were reported prompting Axis satellite Hungary to prepare to declare Budapest an open city.

Dispatches from the German capital also reported the announcement that Nazi troops had ceased fighting and had been withdrawing from Sicily came as a shock to many Germans.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm paper Dagens Nyheter said most Germans had expected Nazi resistance would continue for some time. Reports to the home-front had given no indication that an evacuation was imminent, he declared.

Reports Nazis Are Evacuating Norway

LONDON—(INS)—The Algiers radio today quoted underground German sources as reporting that the Nazis are hastily evacuating Norway.

In a broadcast heard by Reuters' news agency, the station relayed a report from the German "Freedom" transmitter which said bluntly:

"The Nazi evacuation of Norway has begun. Shiploads of troops are leaving the country at an increasing rate."

yesterday to be greeted by his British colleagues and Canadian hosts.

He rode among cheering thousands through the quaint, winding streets of the city to the parade ground of the citadel for brief official welcoming ceremonies, then devoted the evening to relaxation as the dinner guests, with Churchill and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, of the Earl of Athlone, governor general of the Dominion.

All through last night, as for many days before, lights blazed among the turrets and towers of the Chateau Frontenac, where the highest ranking military, naval and air commanders of New Britain and the United States and their technical staffs toiled on new blueprints of action against foes already rocked by bitter defeats in Africa, Sicily, Russia and the Pacific.

Some conference insiders said the work could be brought to a conclusion and ready for final action by the president and prime minister in a week.

That indicates the speed designed to make the most of Axis weaknesses displayed first in Africa, then Sicily, and again in the Atlantic, where U-boats sunk by the score in the last three months clutter the ocean floor.

The president heard new glad tidings from the Sicilian war as his special train rumbled toward Quebec yesterday. Word of the taking of Messina by American troops reached him en route.

The war news was no less bright from Russia, where deadly blows at over-extended Nazi battle lines are falling now and Red armies are lunging westward. It was touched with new and significant Allied victories in the Pacific.

All these victories offer new factors of consequence to the war planners in Quebec. They would appear to call for bold tactics and relentless aggression to maintain and amplify the growing pressure on the enemy on all fronts until the final crackup comes.

Red Star Says Allies Missed Golden Chance

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Russian Army newspaper Red Star, commenting on the Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Quebec, said today the Allies had failed to take advantage of the opportunity afforded by the Soviet summer offensive to strike Germany from the west, and repeated the call for a second front.

"Only such an operation can cut down the length of the war to any considerable extent," the newspaper said.

The Germans revised their strategic plans since their defeat in the battle for Kursk, it continued, and decided in a special assembly of military and political leaders at Hitler's headquarters to resort to a stubborn defense effort to prolong the war and "delay the imminent catastrophe."

Red Star said the battles at Kursk and Orel "proved the superiority of Russian troops over Germans both on the offensive and defensive."

The newspaper said, "The Allied command carried out a well-prepared landing operation in Sicily," but added:

"The struggle for Sicily, however, failed to divert a single German division from the Soviet-German front. The German military observer Capt. Ludwig Sertorius said a few days ago that not a single plane had been shifted to Sicily from the Soviet-German front. Consequently all the possibilities opened by the victorious offensive of the Red Army have not been used so far for strong blows on Germany from the west."

OUTSTRIP AXIS

British Minister Says Allies War Production Tops Axis Powers.

LONDON —(AP)— War production by the United States and the British commonwealth is between two and three times the total output of the Axis powers, Minister of Production Oliver Lyttelton said today.

Speaking at a luncheon, Lyttelton declared Britain achieved her production rate through receiving about 25 per cent of her supplies from the United States.

Roosevelt Orders Stricter Rein on Unions In Wartime

ior Secretary Ickes to put selected coal mines on a 48-hour work week were parts of a program laying the groundwork for return of some of the government seized mines to private control in the near future.

The anti-strike law requires return of property taken over by the government within 60 days after it has been restored to productive efficiency, and it was indicated that Ickes, as boss of the government-operated mines, views the lengthening of the work week as one means of restoring productive efficiency by making up for the loss of miners to the draft and to high-paying war industries.

The president in his letter to Davis said it was his earnest wish that punitive "sanctions," which he said exist "only as a matter of wartime necessity," may not have to be invoked. He praised the board's work to date, asserting that of more than 1,000 disputes disposed of in the last 18 months, only seven were referred to him for "persistent non-compliance."

"Congress intentionally left the enforcement of these (WLB) orders to executive action," the president wrote Davis in agreeing to the chairman's suggestion that it would be helpful to define a program of compliance under the new anti-strike law in the "relatively few cases in which executive action may become necessary."

He then outlined his order as providing for:

1 Government seizure and operation of a plant where either the employer or the union refuses to comply with a board ruling.

2 If this could not be done without impeding the war effort, then "less drastic sanctions" such as withholding or withdrawing from an employer any priorities, benefits or privileges, including contracts, until compliance has been effectuated.

3 Where a plant is taken over for union non-compliance to prevent interference with production and protect workers who wish to work, the government agency taking over shall ask the board to modify its terms of employment order to withhold union benefits and all other rights until the union abides by the WLB decision.

4 In cases where the latter penalty might involve the check-off, the order provides that such dues shall be held in escrow, to be turned over to the union upon compliance.

5 In the case of non-complyings individuals, the order tells the stabilization chief to direct the war manpower commission to modify draft deferments of employment privileges, or both, for offenders.

Rum, Brandy and Cordial Drinkers To Get 'Bargain'

Mansfielders who like rum, brandy, and cordials are going to get a rationing bargain at their liquor store during the next six weeks.

The next ration period was extended today by the state liquor department to nearly six weeks instead of four, and along with the purchase of one-fifth, a quart, or two pints of whisky, the buyer may also purchase a like amount of rum, brandy, or cordials without using any more coupons.

The next ration period, beginning Aug. 23, will extend to Sept. 30, totaling 39 days.

Liquor Director Don Fisher said the liberalized rations were set up for the next period so the state department can operate on a straight calendar-month basis, bringing the department's distribution period in line with the allocation period of liquor suppliers.

Fisher said the change also was adopted "to avoid closing each period on a Saturday night so as to distribute the selling load more evenly over the period.

"Saturday is the big buying day of the week and the added load caused by closing on that day causes unnecessary congestion in the stores and prevents proper service to customers," Fisher added.

Since rationing was inaugurated June 1, the purchase unit has been a fifth, quart or two pints of spirits of any kind. Fisher said the additional unit authorized for the new period reflected an inventory of state acquired since June 1 in rum, brandy and cordials.

He said purchasers taking advantage of the additional unit must buy the merchandise at one time.

The director said he hoped to be able to authorize a "similar extra dividend" in the holiday season. The present additional unit, he said, was intended to cover the gap resulting from the extra days included in the extended period.

CRASH KILLS 9

Army Airmen Die; Ohio Pilot Among Dead.

BLYTHE, Cal. — (INS) — The Blythe army air base today revealed the names of nine army airmen who were killed last Monday night when a four-motored bomber crashed and burned near Garnet, Cal.

Cause of the crash was not indicated by the army. The victims included 2nd Lieut. Charles T. Wellbrook, 22, pilot, Chillicothe.

north of the proposed airport site until after the war, Mayor Locke pointed out. When funds are available from state or federal sources, the highway could be relocated permanently, he said.

Meanwhile, a Mansfielder who is an army air corps engineer in Hawaii today urged the mayor and other city officials not to let anything stand in the way of the airport development.

Writing from Honolulu, Harold Bolianiz, who has been in the army air forces two years, urged that the "red tape be cut to the bone so we can get the airport work started at once."

Boliantz said he has realized since he left Mansfield two years ago how much aviation is going to mean after the war, and he pointed out that young Mansfield men now serving in the air forces will be much more likely to return to their home city for jobs after the war if they know Mansfield will have modern airport facilities.

"This is a golden opportunity to step up the progress of our city," Boliantz said. He added that he follows the progress of the airport closely in the News-Journal which he receives regularly.

make some surprise move in support of Japanese jungle troops now falling back slowly before Americans and Australians near Salamaua, Nippcnese air base 350 miles down the New Guinea coast from Wewak.

The surprise worked the other way.

The first of more than 10 waves of American and Australian-manned planes appeared over the four airdromes of the Wewak sector during the dark first hour of Tuesday. Hour after hour until well into daylight, the fliers crisscrossed the spreading areas of smoke and flame.

Many of the enemy planes were standing wing tip to wing tip—perfect targets.

Sixty Japanese bombers and fighters were found warming up on the Borum airfield. The crews were inside. Ground attendants stood nearby. Fragmentation bombs swiftly turned the scene into one of fiery wreckage and death.

After the bombers were through, attack planes and fighters roared low to pour out cannon and machinegun fire.

Seven hundred miles to the east in the Solomons, the American airforce struck hard at Japan's base at Vila, on Kolombangara island, the night of Aug. 16.

Vila now is threatened both from above and below. Above it, United States forces have occupied Vella Lavella island. Below, across the Kula gulf, on New Georgia, today's communique reported new ground successes within three miles of the trapped Japanese garrison at Bairoko harbor.

Pictures Show Heavy Damage In Borneo

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—(AP)—A careful study of photographs confirms that widespread damage was caused among huge Japanese-held oil refinery installations at Balikpapan, Borneo, on Friday, Aug. 13, by raiding Liberator bombers, a headquarters spokesman said today.

The photographs were taken from other Liberators which flew back over Balikpapan Aug. 16.

Ship Losses Hamper Japanese 'Profit'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An acute shipping shortage resulting largely from Allied torpedoes, shells and bombs is making it difficult for Japan to get at her newly-won East Indian riches.

The Netherlands information bureau estimated today, on the basis of Tokyo broadcasts and information available to Australia that the Japanese had suffered net loss of 50,000 to 75,000 tons of merchant shipping since the war began.

The Japanese have said on several occasions they needed 20,000,000 tons or more of merchant shipping to exploit the conquered areas. Yet Japan had only 6,000,000 tons of merchant ships at the end of 1941, and since then she has built only an estimated 600,000 to 700,000 tons.

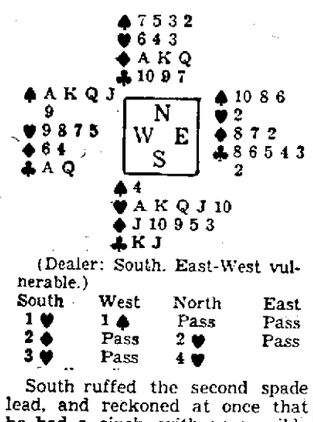
"The Authority on Authorities"

AVOID LONG CHANCES

It is easy to let your thinking processes get upset if, when you are playing for what seems a very easy contract to make, some development, such as an extremely bad trump break, shows that your original simple idea won't work. Naturally, you don't give up right then before looking for some alternative plan. But, if the plan you first spot then is one with heavy odds against it, you really ought to take another look and see if there is not some more likely course. Long chances should be avoided, if they can be.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East

2 ♦	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the second spade lead, and reckoned at once that he had a cinch, with no possible losers in sight except maybe two in clubs and the one already gone in spades. He was brought up with a bump when the second round of trumps showed that West held four of them. Now he could no longer finish the hostile trumps in three rounds, take the dummy's three top diamonds and re-enter his own hand with his last trump to run the rest of the diamonds.

Quick study showed him a desperate chance, and he took it. He finished trumps with the next two rounds, then scored dummy's three top diamonds, following with a club lead toward his K. This would have worked fine, he figured, if west had a six-card spade suit and East now was out of it, and if the club A was held by East. But the odds against that were heavy. So, when West got the club K with his A, he scored another club with his Q and two more spades, putting the contract down two.

A little more study, after the second trump round, should have told South to take two of the dummy's diamond tops at once, hoping West held at least two of the suit, then lead the dummy's last trump to his own hand. His own final trump then would have settled West's last trump and made possible discard of dummy's last diamond, unblocking the suit for him.

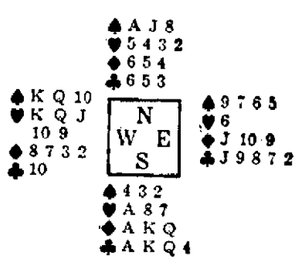
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West, who had bid hearts and later doubled your 3-No Trumps, leads the heart K, how would you in the South try for the contract?

2 to 1 IT'S OIL!

TWO TONS OF OIL PRODUCTS TO EVERY ONE TON OF ALL OTHER WAR MATERIAL! THAT WAS THE RATIO THAT MADE UP THE NORTH AFRICAN INVASION ARMADA. IT DOESN'T TAKE VERY LONG FOR ONE OF OUR WAR MACHINES TO CONSUME ITS OWN WEIGHT IN OIL! OIL IS INDEED AMMUNITION!

THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS A PLEASURE CAR!

EVEN BEFORE PEARL HARBOR, 77% OF AMERICA'S PASSENGER CAR TRIPS WERE ESSENTIAL TRIPS. TODAY, 80% OF AMERICA'S FACTORY WORKERS DEPEND ON PRIVATELY-OWNED CARS TO GET TO WORK. PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS CARRY ONLY ONE OUT OF FIVE!

HERE COMES AN AIRPORT!

EVEN IN THE AFRICAN DESERT, IT TOOK U.S. FORCES ONLY A FEW HOURS TO LAY DOWN AIRFIELD RUNWAYS OF ASPHALT — MADE FROM OIL. BECAUSE ASPHALT DRIES SO QUICKLY, PLANES COULD LAND AND TAKE OFF ALMOST IMMEDIATELY. SOHIO IS ONE OF AMERICA'S PRINCIPAL PRODUCERS OF ASPHALT — A POTENT WEAPON IN KEEPING THE AXIS DUCKING!

OIL EVEN GUARDS THEIR SOLES!

SOHIO HAS LONG BEEN HELPING TO "KEEP 'EM FLYING," AND "KEEP 'EM ROLLING" — AND NOW EVEN HELPS TO "KEEP 'EM WALKING," WITH THE AID OF PETROLEUM WAX. WAX TAILINGS ARE USED AS A BINDER FOR INNER SOLES IN ARMY SHOES — TO "MAKE 'EM LAST" AND "KEEP 'EM DRY"!

DID YOU KNOW THIS?

One raid — one solid trainload of gas! 1,000 bombers going only 400 miles into Europe and return use upa good-sized trainload of aviation gasoline.

• • •

The $64 question! What U. S. industry is the largest producer of war material? It's the oil industry — which turns out twice the tonnage of the next biggest basic war producer. Were you right?

New use for asphalt! SOHIO not only is making asphalt for airfield runways but the newest use is to waterproof containers for food, shells and bayonets for shipment abroad.

• • •

Handle "tons" of ration coupons! At SOHIO, more than thirty people do nothing but check gas ration coupons. It's one of the war jobs that has to be done.

Even the ski troops travel on oil! Three types of waxes made from oil are used by our ski troops. One aids climbing slopes, another for high-speed downhill travel — and still another for flat running.

• • •

Lest we forget! Oil companies and the public owe a vote of thanks to service station men and women. They not only are keeping America's cars running, but theirs is the job of helping you with gasoline rationing.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1943.

After all, peaches are a luxury—and, at present prices it's probably just as well to treat them as such.

Now that the Axis is talking about "open city" protection, it wasn't so long ago that English schools were regarded as "military objectives."

Combination automobile-airplane vehicles are already in blueprint form, it is claimed—but the designation, foolproof," has thus far been omitted.

High Cost of Procrastination

CLEVELAND is at least briefly stirred by the acts of a 17-year-old degenerate who had been given little thought until he committed a sex offense against a 9-year-old boy and soon afterward killed two 13-year-old twin boys.

This youth is a parolee from the Lancaster industrial school and was recently under observation in the psychopathic ward of a Cleveland hospital, from which he was released on the plea of his mother.

Cleveland is so stirred that it is demanding action by the state to provide sufficient institutional space for confinement and treatment of psychopathic patients subject to obsessive emotions or compulsions which they are unable to control.

Records disclose that there are more than 10,000 persons at large in Ohio who are dangerously feeble-minded and there is reason to believe that records are far from complete. These are frequently public charges during infancy and childhood, due to moronic parentage, and later become adult dependents, or worse.

Mansfield, like other cities, is not free from this "problem" and menace, and it would be unfair to allow people of this community to feel that children here are any safer from attack and injury by a degenerate than are children of other Ohio cities.

The subject of juvenile delinquency, which was under lively discussion in Mansfield a few weeks ago, links so closely with the present topic, because of opportunities offered for association of normal children with sub-normal individuals and actual perverts, that the two must be considered together if there is to be any actual accomplishment locally or on a state-wide basis.

Where Your Blood Is Put To Use

COMING of the Red Cross blood donor unit to Mansfield tomorrow, to remain through Saturday, gives added timeliness to the close-up view of blood plasma in actual use, given by Ernie Pyle in today's article from Sicily, which appears on this page.

Much has been said locally to emphasize the importance of blood donations to meet needs of treating wounded soldiers on battle fronts but some people have apparently found it difficult to visualize conditions under which life-sustaining plasma becomes essential to recovery.

Note one paragraph in particular in Ernie Pyle's article: "They cite case after case where a wounded man was all but dead and a few minutes after the plasma injection would be sitting up and talking, with all the life and color back in his face."

All cannot give blood. It is a fine opportunity for patriotic and humanitarian service by those who can. If you are among the volunteers do not fail to meet your appointment. If you have not yet volunteered call the Red Cross office, 1494-6, and learn if you can qualify to give a pint of your blood to help save lives.

Marvin Jones Has Sound Idea

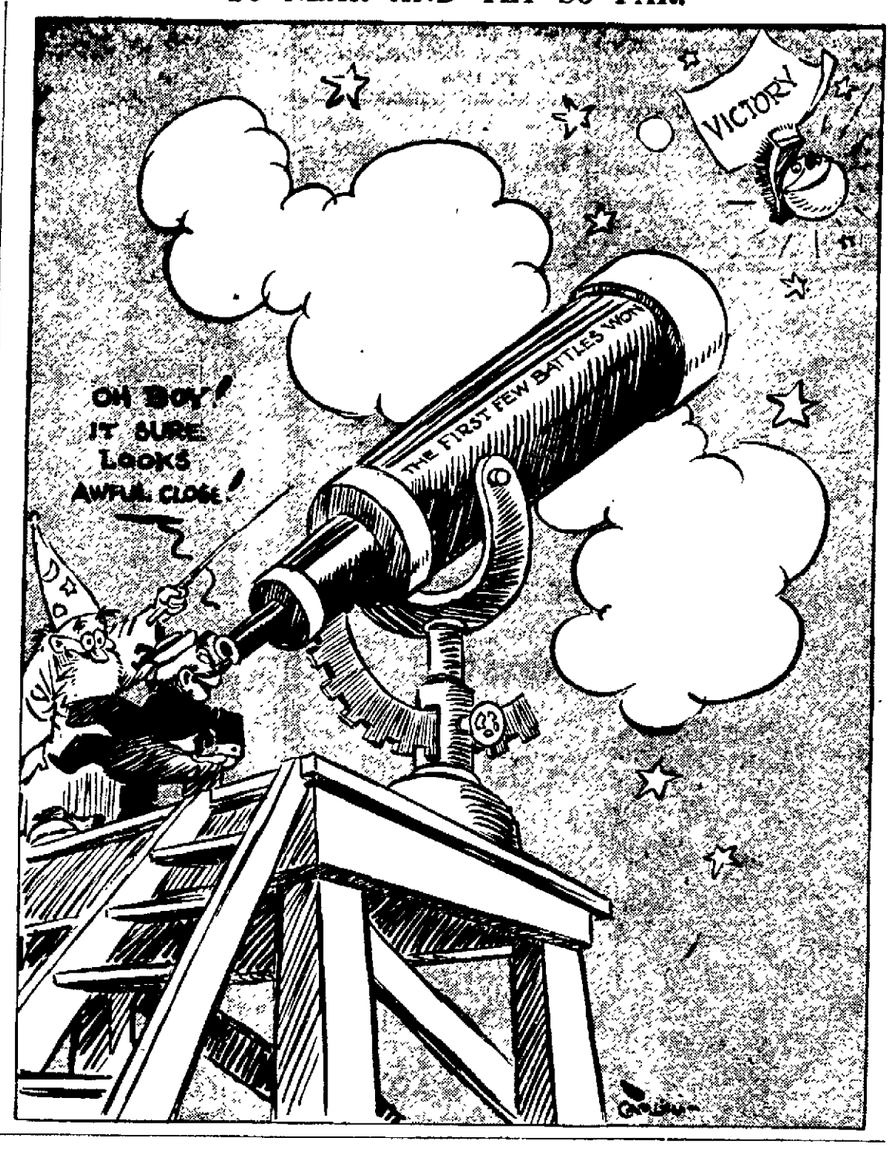
SO SENSIBLE that it appears unfitted to its locale is a recent statement by Marvin Jones, food administrator. Seemingly out of accord with all such New Deal ideas as acreage allotments, marketing quotas and benefit payments for non-production, Mr. Jones boldly asserts: "Food must be produced in the far stretches of this great and fertile country, and not in the streets of the capital. . . . This country is too broad, too varied in its production, to have the work done by directives from Washington."

Why the very idea? Surely this revolutionary notion opposes New Deal ideology to such extent as to disqualify Mr. Jones for the unified thinking required of government employes in positions of authority.

There is just a chance, however, that visionary schemes are to be dropped for the duration, and that common sense can be restored to direction of food production and distribution policies.

After the Nazis had shouted for years, "The fuehrer never makes a mistake," Goebbels now writes: "Only the most overweening people think that they are above mistakes"—which seems to make sense at that.

SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR.



Ancient Milan Pays Heavy Price For the Iniquities of Mussolini

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AFTER Messina—what? The terrible devastation wrought by British Royal Air Force bombers during the past few nights in ancient Milan, richest industrial city of Italy and next to Rome the largest metropolis of the country, may well presage its destruction, if indeed it hasn't already been virtually leveled.

That statement may come as a personal shock to a lot of Americans who, like the writer, know Milan well and have loved the old place, especially the fine cathedral which for more than five centuries has kept its doors open to wayfarers from many lands. Still, war is a shocking business at best and this is one of the cities which must pay the price of Mussolini's iniquity. Milan not only is the center of great war industries, but it lies north of the river Po, which runs across northern Italy from west to east and provides the strategic line of fortifications which the Germans have manned as a defense against any Allied advance from the south. Thus this city, and other unhappy places like neighboring Turin, will remain in German-held territory and be subject to continual bombardment even if the rest of Italy surrenders.

DEWITT MACKENZIE

Dispatches from Switzerland say that thousands of Milan's inhabitants have been parading the ruined streets and demanding peace. If they were well south of the Po, such demonstrations might get them what they ask, provided other peace-minded cities joined in. But as things now stand, the Huns are likely to sacrifice all northern Italy in order to delay the surge of the Allies towards victory.

Whether the rest of Italy must suffer a similar fate depends on old Marshal Badoglio's government, which thus far has chosen to play the Boche game. He has been warned by British Premier Churchill that "Italy will be seared and scarred and blackened from one end to the other," unless he surrenders.

THUS FAR the only thing Badoglio has done to try to save his country has been his unsupported declaration that Rome is an "open city." A statement which his government has the grace to admit can't be expected to save the Eternal City unless it's substantiated by proof.

Pending the production of such proof, to the complete satisfaction of the Allies, the bombardment of Rome will have to proceed if the exigencies of war demand it. The capital not only is the strategic railway center of all Italy, but it is filled with war industries, not to mention the government and military headquarters.

There are two chances, so it seems to me, that the portion of Italy south of the Po may shortly find surcease from the punishment of war.

One is that the peace demonstrations of the people may swell into such proportions that the government will be compelled to surrender to the Allies—and tell the Germans to go hang.

The other is the possibility that now the Germans have withdrawn as many of their troops and as much of their equipment as they can from Sicily, Hitler may release Badoglio from further Nazi bondage and let him save what he can by surrender.

Of course, the Fuehrer may insist that Italy hang on until the bloody end. About the only way he could enforce such an edict, however, would be by threatening reprisals against the occupied portion of northern Italy.

There's no indication that the Germans intend to try to make any major defenses of all Italy against invasion, although they are likely to hold the northern theater so long as possible. Thus, unless Italian troops are ready to stand up against the Allies (which they haven't been doing to any extent in either Tunisia or Sicily), it could gain Hitler little to insist that Badoglio refuse to surrender.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

At the Grass Roots

I WALKED through a close-cropped timothy field, where stubble had little green blades showing at the base. A new crop of grass was starting. I kicked the tightly woven turf apart and got down to the very grass roots. Ten bright silvery bulbs were there, caches of starch and sugar for the new sprouts.

Beneath this mesh of life, five small wriggling grubs came to my notice. They were a summer old and depended for their livelihood upon the same roots that fed the sprouting grass. The soil was fragrant from decay of last year's clover and matted roots were like a woven cloth several inches below the surface. The fragile hair roots appeared like delicate, lacy mesh.

The opening I had made was hardly larger than my hand. Small black ants trekked back and forth, laden with white larvae of the aphid tribe, with bits of wood, small flies and beetles. Like a foraging army, they treaded up and down in search of booty.

A trapnest spider had his home just at one edge. The lid was closed, and I knew he was resting below in his tiny cavern, doubtless sensing with trepidation the movements of my hands and my heavy steps that jarred his silken cradle.

An opening led down to the slimy burrow of a giant angleworm. There were traces of fresh grass blades and small ends of roots. The downward trail was moister than the surface, so I knew he, too, was at home.

As I dug about I found more larvae and the ruins of four cocoons, tenanted last spring, empty now. Some were of common Junebugs, locusts and beetles. I wondered how many forms of life were emerging every hour, to live their small brief day, and return again to the earth that gave them sustenance.

I knew that enough of science and bacteriology and agriculture and philosophy and poetry was here at the roots of the grass to keep men humble for years to come. A pair of sprightly crickets came out of the grass and broke my reverie with their cheerful chirp. They sang of fading summer—and what matter? Autumn, too, has wonders, and winter has a wisdom of its own, they said.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL the postmaster general has returned from a tour of four midwest states and reported his findings to the president.

* * *

No politics were discussed.

* * *

Mr. Walker said the postoffice pens in Montana, North Dakota, Illinois and Minnesota were all in good condition.

* * *

Except those bent out of shape by Republicans.

Illinois Republicans bent them the worst.

A few Democratic leaders called on Mr. Walker during his trip.

* * *

They were under the impression he wanted to talk politics but he set 'em straight.

* * *

He told them that the American people weren't interested in politics at this time.

* * *

And he's got something there . . . the people aren't.

* * *

Thought for the day: No politics for the duration. Well . . . Hardly any.

Washington Merry-Go-Round — By DREW PEARSON

Huge Rise In Liquor Bootlegging Suspected By Federal Officials

WASHINGTON—Certain government officials who deal with the liquor industry strongly suspect that a multi-million dollar bootleg operation has developed in the United States.

They began to smell something when they got the latest figures, which show that the amount of liquor being withdrawn from warehouses for sale to the public is only 55 per cent of last year. And there is every evidence that actual consumption of liquor not only has not dropped to 55 per cent, but is even greater than last year.

America learned the tricks of bootlegging some years ago, when bootlegging was really beset with difficulties. It was illegal, during prohibition days, to distill liquor, to bottle it, and to sell it. Today, however, none of these processes is in itself illegal.

Temptation to carry on bootleg operations is very strong because of the vast quantities of alcohol available, and the tremendous profit in marketing this alcohol as a beverage.

Industrial alcohol costs only 90 cents a gallon. Add five cents for "cleaning" the denatured alcohol, another five cents for bottling, and you have a 190-proof gallon of "beverage" which, after adding water to reduce the "proof," is marketable at $38 a gallon.

The difference between a cost price of $1 a gallon and the retail price of $38 is apparently more than some producers can resist.

Note: Alcohol Tax Unit inspectors are assigned to distilleries, but not to plants using industrial alcohol, as in the manufacture of paints or anti-freeze mixtures.

More Meat.

A WASHINGTON housewife walked into a chain store market with 35 red points and a hunger for ham.

She said to the butcher, "Could I get half a ham? I have only 35 points."

The butcher produced a six-pound piece. The lady did a little mental arithmetic. Nine points a pound, times six pounds, equals 54 points. "But I don't have 54 points," she said.

"That's all right, Lady," said the butcher. "You can take it anyway. We have more hams around here than we knew what to do with."

This is the first twitter of what will soon become a welcome chorus. Pork products are coming onto the market with a rush. In fact, marketings of both hogs and cattle are shooting upward, and this trend will continue through the late summer and fall.

Total U. S. meat production for 1943 is officially estimated at 23¼ billion pounds—nearly two billion pounds more than 1942, and by far the largest meat production in the history of the United States.

This staggering figure is so much greater than the 4.8 billion pounds required for the armed forces and Lend-Lease that there will be a comfortable quantity left over for civilian consumption.

Nevertheless, there is no plan to raise the ration allotment for civilians. It looks as if the combination of these two factors—abundant meat supplies and continued tight rationing—will produce more of the irregular marketing which the Washington housewife encountered at the local store.

Rubber Deluge.

OFFICIALS in the office of the rubber administrator are beginning to wonder what they can do with the hundreds of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber which will come from the new plants next year. It seems a little late, but they are now facing the elementary question of whether or not the tire companies can handle the vast quantities of synthetic rubber.

The greatest amount of rubber ever processed by the nation's rubber companies in one year was 540,000 tons. But next year we shall have nearly one million tons to deal with. Obviously, the present facilities will be inadequate.

But the problem is aggravated by the fact that tire manufacturing machinery has been knocked down and stored away so that rubber companies could convert to production for the war. Instead of tires, they have been making rubber boats, balloons, tank treads, and life rafts.

Thus we have the problem of finding new plant space in which to bring that machinery back into production, and the further problem of creating entirely new productive facilities to take care of the increased quantities of rubber which will be available for manufacture.

Note: The problem of synthetic rubber tires, as previously noted in this column, is quality, not quantity. There will not be enough natural rubber to mix with synthetic to insure a high quality in heavy duty tires.

Badoglio Stymied.

STATE DEPARTMENT officials believe that Badoglio took office with the definite intention of getting Italy out of the war and that he cannot turn back from that purpose. But if he had proceeded directly, the Germans would have stepped in and Badoglio would have stepped out before he could catch his breath.

It must be remembered that the German force in Italy is not merely a military force. German civilian officials are in control of practically all railroad, telegraph, and other communication facilities, as well as holding or supervising important municipal and provincial government posts.

Thus it becomes impossible for the Italian government to take any step without the Germans being fully aware.

According to this view, the Badoglio "cooperation" with the Nazis is no indication of what he may hope to do, or try to do later. Likewise, the subsiding of civilian protests against the Badoglio government should not be regarded as indicating that Badoglio has resorted to the same suppressive measures as Mussolini.

State department officials point out that liberal civilian elements have now shown their hand and thus become vulnerable to Nazi reprisal. Thousands of men have signed manifestoes, and scores of editorial writers have broken out into a fine fury against Fascism. But this only makes them more vulnerable to the Nazis, who, after all, are still in control.

These Italian leaders, realizing it is no easy matter to step out of the war, are now moderating their tune, and giving Badoglio a chance to work out plans for peace.

Kind Treatment Amazes Wounded Nazi, He Had Expected to Be Tortured.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY—(By Wireless)—We had many kinds of human beings among the wounded in our clearing-station tent during the time I spent there.

We had a couple of slightly wounded Puerto Ricans, one of whom still carried his guitar and sat up on his stretcher and strummed on it ever so lightly. There were full-blooded Indians, and Negroes, and New York Italians, and plain American ranch hands, and Spanish-Americans from down Mexico way.

There were local Sicilians who had been hit by trucks. There was a captured Italian soldier who said his own officers had shot him in the face for refusing to attack. There were two American aviators who had been fished out of the sea. There were some of our own medics who had been wounded as they worked under shellfire.

There was one German soldier who had been shot while apparently trying to escape to Italy in a small boat. He was young and thin and scared to death. He objected furiously to being given a shot of morphine, apparently thinking we were torturing him. Then when he discovered he was being treated exactly like everybody else, his amazement grew.

You could see bewilderment and gratitude in his face when the ward boys brought him water and then food. And when finally the chaplain, making his morning rounds, gave him cigarets, candy, tooth powder and soap, the same as all the rest, he sat up grinning and played with them as though he were a child on Christmas morning.

It took him five minutes to find out how to get the cellophane wrapper off his pack of cigarets, and our whole tent stopped to watch in amusement.

SOME of the wounded were sick at the stomach. One tough-looking New York Italian, faint with malaria, tried to crawl outside the tent to be sick but passed out cold on the way. He was lying there on the ground in his drawers, yellow as death, when we noticed him. They carried him back, and ten minutes later he was all over his sudden attack and as chipper as anybody.

Some were as hungry as bears. Others couldn't eat a bite. One fellow, with his shattered arm sticking up at right angles in its metal rack, gobbled chicken-noodle soup which a ward boy fed him while the doctor punched and probed at his other arm to insert the big needle that feeds blood plasma.

And while we are on the subject of plasma, the doctors asked me at least a dozen times to write about plasma. "Write lots about it, go clear overboard for it, say that plasma is the outstanding medical discovery of this war," they said.

So I beg you folks back home to give and keep on giving your blood. We've got plenty on hand here now, but if we ever run into mass casualties such as they have on the Russian front, we will need untold amounts of it.

They say plasma is absolutely magical. They say scores of thousands who died in the last war could have been saved by it. Thousands have already been saved by it in this war.

They cite case after case where a wounded man was all but dead and within a few minutes after a plasma injection would be sitting up and talking, with all the life and color back in his face.

The doctors asked me to repeat what you have been told so many times already — that it doesn't make any difference what type your blood is, and that the normal person has no ill or weakening effects from giving his blood.

A FRONT-LINE clearing station is made up of doctors and men who were ordinary, normal people back home. But here they live a rough-and-tumble life. They sleep on the ground, work ghastly hours, sometimes are under fire, and they handle a flow of wounded that would sicken and dishearten a person less immune to it.

They'll get little glory back home when it's all over, but they have some recompense right here in the gratitude of the men they treat. Time and again as I lay in my tent I heard wounded soldiers discussing among themselves the wonderful treatment they had had at the hands of the medics.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"This budget just riles me . . . having to set down every little item . . . whose business is it anyway, how much I spend each week."

Here's a Message to All Boys and Girls, To Be Read to Them By Their Parents

Editor's Note—Occasionally something is written so well, under inspiration of intense feeling and deep concern, that it should be passed along to readers of other newspapers. Such a masterpiece of earnest writing was done a few days ago by Louis B Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, as a message to Cleveland children, following the murder of two 13-year-old boys by a sex pervert.

In an introductory paragraph Mr. Seltzer said: "This is very, very important. It is so important that I have asked Mother or Dad to sit down with you for a minute to read it to you. Listen carefully as it is read. Remember every word."

Reproduced here in complete form, the News-Journal joins with Mr. Seltzer in asking that it be read aloud to young children in the family and directed to the attention of older boys and girls who can read and understand it for themselves.

—G. J. K.

YOU like to play outside. You should play outside. It is good for you. Dad and Mother like to have you play outside. When you play outside you get the sunshine which makes you grow stronger. You also enjoy the company of other boys and girls your own age, and that, too, is good for you because it makes you happy and gay. Dad and Mother want to see you happy and gay, because that helps, like the sunshine, to make you strong and enjoy life.

But, this is a big city. There are lots of people in it besides Mother and Dad and the rest of the family. Some of these other people are good. Most of them are good. Some of the people are bad. Not very many of them are bad, but there are enough bad people to make it necessary for all of us, whether we are Dad's and Mother's ages or yours, to watch out for these bad people, and protect ourselves against them.

Maybe Dad and Mother read to you the stories in the papers or told you about the little boy who was beaten up by a bad man, and the other two little boys who were killed by this same bad man.

It is to help protect you against such bad people that I write this so Dad or Mother may read it to you.

Never, for any reason at all, go anywhere with a stranger, no matter whether it is a man or a woman, and no matter what they offer you.

Never get into an automobile with anybody you don't know, whether it is a man or a woman.

Never let them buy you candy or give you candy to get you to talk with them.

Never let them take you to a movie.

Never let them come close to you while you are playing in the street alone, or near a vacant lot or field, or in a park, or on the bathing beach, or even in a regular playground.

It is always best to go anywhere you are going in the company of some other boy or girl you know, or in company with Dad or Mother or some member of the family.

It is always best to go to Dad and Mother if you are going any distance from home, say to the next street, or in the next block, or riding your bicycle very far.

If you keep these things in mind then you will be protected against those bad people who sometimes beat up and kill little boys or girls.

The best way of all, of course, is to listen carefully to what Dad and Mother say to you about whom to play with, or where to go, or the time to come in, and all of these things.

After all, Dad and Mother are your very best friends, and they love you most of all. What they say to you is always for your best interests.

HOUR OF GRACE +++

CHAPTER XXX

Perhaps Van had come up the steps. Perhaps he was drunk and had stumbled up the steps weaving his way in and out of the various rooms until he had come to this room . . . Van, disheveled, his eyes red, his twisted smile a sneer, coming into this room . . . But if it had been Van, he had not been drunk. He had been sane and clear-headed and coldly murderous because he had covered her and closed her eyes. He had cared how she looked when she was found. And nothing in the room was disturbed. If it had been Van, he had been sober and sane and cool and deliberate and efficient.

Or she could see Adele in one of her ill-becoming sports costumes coming up the steps in her long stride, her soft sport shoes cushioning her footsteps . . . Adele with prupose in her ugly, kind face, a glow of triumph in her small eyes . . . Adele had read of these things. She had so gorged herself with stories of death that she had felt herself a heroine. She had never been a heroine before. Good old Adele. She had never been a heroine before. And so she had come up those steps to murder Clare . . . An eye for an eye, she would think. You murdered Jerry and now I'm going to murder you. You've had it coming to you for a long time and I've let you have love and marriage and success and everything you wanted, everything Jerry missed, everything I missed. But you can't have it any more . . . I'm going to be good at this. I've planned it and studied it and I won't make any mistakes. You've lived too long, Clare. I've given you a break to let you live this long and now your number is being called. This time you're on the receiving end, my dear friend, my old pal, my childhood playmate . . .

If Sue had murdered Clare she had come with dignity, head up, shoulders back, faultlessly dressed. Sue would even have noticed how lovely the house was on her brief and desperate visit. And she probably would have wondered what her children were doing while she was about this grim business . . . if they were too warm or too cool or if they were breaking something or annoying somebody and if they had eaten all of their last meal . . . And Sue would murder neatly Her efficient hand would cover Clare. would make her cover Clare. And if anything in the room had been out of order, she would have put it back in place with hands which heretofore could do no wrong. And if they had done wrong now it was because her perfect world had been shattered. Clare had dared to come into that world into which no one new was ever welcomed and Sue had thrust her out. She had killed her . . .

Behind Erica's dark eyes and the tense triangle of her face had there been murder? Had Erica, loving as passionately as only her kind can, killed Clare? Or Elinor McLean with her soft voice and soft ways who loved her son as passionately as a mother can? Or had she, Meegan, or Fayne? . . . Or Fayne . . .

She did not know how long she stood there, seeing each one of them coming up the steps and into this room. Perhaps she stood only a moment with her mind a fast camera turning on and turning off the scene that had taken place in this room. She stood so rigidly, scarcely breathing that her body began to ache and fear ran up and down her spine as fingers run up the keys of a piano . . .

Then she heard someone coming up the steps . . .

Someone was coming up the steps again . . .

She did not breathe now and, standing on the threshold of the room she was as motionless as the dead Clare. As the steps came closer the thought raced through her mind that she envied Clare who was beyond feeling now, beyond the agony of wondering who was coming up the steps, beyond the feeling of cold upon her body and sweat upon her forhead. Whoever was coming, be he or she innocent or guilty, would accuse her. They'll say I did it, she thought. They'll say I killed Clare. This will kill my mother, disgrace Toby and Erica and Fayne will think I murdered his wife And, all the things of my life have led me to this door and the sound in my ears of someone coming who will say that I killed Clare.

She turned and looked down the hall

He saw her as he reached the last step He stopped and lifted his head and frowned. Then slowly he came toward her. Slowly . . . He did not smile as he came nearer. He looked shaken, the fine lines of his mouth grimly set. Nor did he speak when he reached her With a forthright gesture he pulled her into the hall, keeping one hand on her while with the other he closed the door of Clare's room.

"Down here," he said and guiding her gently but firmly they went down the hall to another room. 'Sit down,' he said And again, 'Sit down. I'll get you some brandy. I'll only be a minute."

The room had begun to spin She sat down as a blind person does, feeling for the chair rather than seeing it Then he heard his footsteps on the stairs . . . Fayne? No, she thought. Not Fayne. I did it, not Fayne . . .

She was sitting back in the chintz covered chair looking a little mad when he came back and closed the door and went to her and held the brandy to her lips. It was like fire. She choked over it and the tears ran down her face.

"Feeling better?" he asked. He was standing before her, smiling a little She noticed then that the shadow on his face was his beard.

"Yes, thank you." I did it, she thought Not you. You must not tell me that you did it. I love you . . . How can I think of love now? But I love you . . . I did it, I tell you. I'll tell everyone I did it. They'll have to listen to me.

"Poor Meegan," he said. "How in God's name did you happen to come in this house this morning?"

"I did it, Fayne."

"You did what?"

"I came in and the door was open. And I came up the steps and . . ."

* * *

"The door was open, yes. I found it open. Everything wide open and . . . and Clare dead. You've had a bad fright. Shall I take you home? There's nothing I can do now. I've made the necessary phone calls. I went over on the mainland to call because I've been told that the lines here are not strictly private. They will know, of course, but I wanted to get through some of the formalities first They won't be here for quite some time."

"Who won't be here?"

He said patiently, "The doctor and the mortician."

"And the—the police."

He frowned. "Police? I don't see any need for police. What do you mean?"

She looked up. "Clare was murdered. I think you'd better call the police."

He smiled again a little. Then he said, his smile vanishing. "No, Meegan, Clare wasn't murdered. I know how she died. Clare had diabetes, a bad case of it. She had an operation in Europe in a little town where there was no hospital and the doctor wasn't careful. There was an infection. She came out of it with diabetes, having to depend upon injections of insulin to keep her alive. Miss Willoughby wasn't her secretary. She was her nurse.

"Clare didn't want anyone to know. She didn't want to be thought of as an ill person. She rebelled against the injections and the strict diet. Twice a day she had to have the needle . . . It hurt . . . Miss Willoughby usually did it. I didn't know she wasn't here until she called me last night Clare wouldn't cooperate. She was abusive. Miss Willoughby said. She's been trying to get me to tell me she'd left but I've been moving around the country. I got back as fast as I could . . .

"Clare was dead when I came this morning," he went on: "She went into a coma and died because the plunger that fits into the hypodermic needle was broken and she didn't know it. She's been giving herself injections but getting no insulin . . . I examined the things she used and saw what happened. I knew about them . . . Then I went over to the mainland and telephoned . . . When I left, there were two servants here. The others had left to take defense jobs. I don't know what happened to old Freddie and Mary.

"Clare was . . . difficult. She died in this house alone, all alone. Of all people to die alone . . . You've heard of the man without a country. Clare was a woman without a country. That's what the war made her. And because all the good doctors were in the army in that German town she had to have a bad one who made a mistake and left her with an illness she died of . . . She is another war casualty, another of Hitler's victims . . . Funny, on this peaceful island in peaceful America Hitler murdered an American woman . . . You were right. She was murdered. But it took her a little longer to die than most."

"I'm so ashamed! I thought..."

"I can imagine what you thought . . . Do you feel well enough to go home now?"

"I'm all right. I can drive"

"I saw your car, I thought it was Toby."

"Toby was married on Saturday."

"Married? I see . . ."

She got up slowly. She felt as one does who rises for the first time after a long illness. "Is there anything I can do?"

"No, nothing." He was silent for a moment "There will be the usual formalities. Her Aunt Clara is buried in New York. I'll take her there." At Meegan's troubled, questioning face he said, "I wasn't unprepared for this. Diabetics can live out their natural life span and die of something else if they do what they are told. It has to be a very Spartan existence. But when you've lived with a woman for two years and forced her to take the stuff that gives her her life, you can't be unprepared for something like this. She hid it as if it were a stigma. It was her enemy. She'd never been ill before in her life and she never really believed she had to depend upon insulin to keep her alive. Illness was synonymous with defeat and failure to her and she could be nothing but a superior person. She had everything in the world, but she had a sick body and she was homesick for France. . . . Clare never loved a man She loved a country. Hitler took that, too. She never had friends. Beautiful women have few if any friends. France was her friends, the climate, the life, the language. She wasn't made to be faithful to any man or woman. She was faithful to a country."

Meegan nodded. Then she said, "Good-bye, Fayne."

He took a deep breath. Then, "Good-bye, Meegan"

She went out quietly and closed the door and held tightly to the banisters as she went down the steps.

WMC ANSWERS QUESTIONS ON DRAFT RULES

Purposes of New Selective Service Orders Explained In Series.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The War Manpower Commission has issued the following series of questions and answers on the new selective service rules:

Q. What are the main purposes of the War Manpower Commission's recently announced plan for the utilization of manpower?

A. It is a plan to hold essential workers on war-useful jobs if that is where they are employed now, to assure the transfer of workers to jobs aiding in the war effort and to supply men needed for the armed forces without cutting war production.

Q. What was behind the preparation of the plan?

A. Production of war materials must be stepped up and our armed forces must have the men they need. Care must be taken to make certain that every man is used on the right job, whether it is in production or in the army or the navy.

Q. What are the main features of the program?

A. There are four principal steps: (1) Establishment of a list of critical occupations, covering skills urgently needed in the war effort. (2) Instruction to selective service boards to give greater consideration than ever before to occupational deferment. (3) Establishment of new standards for permitting the transfer of civilian workers from job to job (4) Extension of the list of non-deferrable activities and occupations providing that all men of military age must transfer from such jobs or be placed first in the list for induction by local boards.

Q. How will the new list of critical occupations and the additions to the list of non-deferrable activities and occupations affect the drafting of fathers?

A. Fathers who are in non-deferrable activities or occupations, regardless of their order numbers, will be the first called for military service. Fathers who transfer to essential occupations and thus release single men who are otherwise eligible for military service also help to decrease the need for drafting fathers.

Q. After Oct. 1, will the occupation of a registrant otherwise qualified for military service be the main factor in determining whether he will be inducted or deferred if his order number is called?

A. Generally speaking, yes. In the cases of men with dependents, the question of hardship to dependents must always be given grave consideration. But as a general proposition, when a registrant is being considered for 1-A classification after Oct. 1, the main question will be whether he can serve his country better in the armed forces or in war production and support of the war effort.

Q. Does the new list of critical occupations replace the list of essential activities and occupations which has previously guided selective service local boards in considering occupational deferments?

A. No. It simply tells local boards that among the occupations on the previously issued list, the 149 named on the list of critical occupations are those most urgently needed in war industry and supporting civilian activities and that they also require lengthy training and considerable experience. For these reasons, local boards are instructed to give particular and grave consideration to the deferment of registrants having these critically needed skills provided they are engaged in war production or in support of the war effort However, any registrant qualified for an occupation on the critical list who is not engaged in an essential activity by Oct. 1, 1943, will not be considered for occupational deferment

Q. What are the chances for occupational deferment of registrants whose jobs are included on the list of essential activities and occupations but not on the list of critical occupations?

A. The basis for all occupational deferment is that the registrant must be a "necessary man" in war production or in support of the war effort The decision in each individual case subject to the right of appeal is made by the registrant's local board. The list of "critical occupations," "essential activities and occupations and "non-deferrable activities and occupations" are issued by the War Manpower Commission to guide the local boards in making these decisions Local boards also are instructed to obtain all available information from national state and local levels to assist them in determining whether a registrant is a 'necessary man' and particularly to use the facilities of the United States Employment Service for information as to whether there is a national or local shortage of persons with his qualifications

Q. What is the status of registrants whose activities and occupations are not included on the 'list of essential activities and occupations' or on the "list of non-deferrable activities and occupations?"

A The inclusion of a registrant's employment on the "list of essential activities and occupations" or its omission from that list and the "list of non-deferrable activities and occupations" does not conclusively determine his occupational status. The question to be determined by his local board, in consultation with the United States Employment Service and other national, state and local agencies, is whether or not the registrant is needed in his current occupation in support of the war effort. If the board so finds, when the registrant is called by his order number for possible induction into the armed forces, the board can defer him.

Q. Is skill or replaceability the basis for occupational deferment?

A. Both factors are to be considered. A skilled workman is usually more difficult to replace than an unskilled one, but an unskilled worker may be deferred if his induction would vitally interfere with war production. The controlling factor is the immediate need. Local boards are instructed to take into account not only the national shortage in a registrant's skill, but also available replacements for even unskilled workers and current local shortages of skilled or unskilled workers in war supporting industries.

A Until he can be replaced by someone not qualified for military service. In other cases of men deferred in war production or activities supporting the war effort deferment cannot be granted for a period longer than 6 months at one time, and the deferment can be revoked at any time a registrant's local board finds that a registrant has left the job in which he was deferred or is no longer needed in it On the other hand, the board can continue the deferment by not more than 6-month periods, so long as in its judgment the registrant is needed in the war effort and is irreplaceable. Registrants deferred in agriculture, however come under the Tydings' amendment and are deferred for indefinite period as long as they are found necessary to and regularly engaged in an essential occupation or endeavor.

Q What is the status of registrants now engaged in non-deferrable activities or occupations?

A. Men of military age in such activities and occupations, together with idlers, are given no consideration for dependency deferment, except for unusual circumstances such as extreme hardship to dependents Otherwise, local boards are instructed to reclassify them immediately unless they transfer to other than non-deferrable occupations or register for such transfer with the United States Employment Service in which event they will be given 30 days leeway prior to reclassification.

Sixth Roosevelt-Churchill Talk May Be 'Victory Conference'

August, 1941—Atlantic Charter conference

January, 1943—"Unconditional Surrender" conference, Casablanca

Sixth conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in Quebec, since the war started may become known as the "Victory conference" as they plan the blows that finally may bring defeat to the Axis Scenes of the new conference and of those that preceded it are shown above. It is believed that the talks may bring Allied invasion of the European continent itself before long, as the Russians advance on the eastern front and Allies complete victory in Sicily.

POTATO LEAF SHOWING TRUE OR LATE BLIGHT

Protection of Potatoes in Victory Garden.

Released By Central Press

With potatoes maturing in the victory garden, protection of them should not be relaxed.

As the potato plants mature, hoe up the soil around them to help hold them upright and to protect the tubers from the sun. If any tubers are found exposed above the soil surface, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, cover them with soil at once, since exposure to sunlight turns them green and renders them unfit for eating.

Be alert against late blight of potatoes, which is probably the most destructive ailment of the crop. The disease attacks in wet, cool weather, causing dark colored, irregularly shaped dead areas on leaves and stems, see illustration. Late blight prematurely kills the plants and greatly reduces the yield of tubers.

The remedy for blight is Bordeaux mixture, applied wet or dry. The easiest way to protect potato plants is to combine the poison and the fungicide, arsenate of lead and Bordeaux mixture. One can buy powered arsenate of lead and powered Bordeaux mixture, mix them together and apply with a hand duster.

GROCERS HIT BY RED TAPE

British Store Owners Quit Rather Than Battle Form Filling.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Washington has nothing on the British Ministry of Food when it comes to issuing instructions to food retailers.

One reason why so many small British grocers are going out of business is said to be the mass of official form-filling with which they have to deal nowadays, and the tangled verbiage of officialdom they are supposed to be able to decipher.

The Ministry's Form G215 is about the last straw. One subsection, addressed to retailers, reads.

"In calculating the points available for use with deposit slip PP2 for ration period number 9, a deduction will be made equivalent to 10% of the points deposited by retailers in the PPI envelope in respect of ration period number 7. Thus the number of points available for use by retailers in period 9 will be the sum of the points carried forward from the deposit slip for ration-period 8 and the points value of the coupons received during period 8 and deposited in the PPI envelope for period 8, less 10% of the points deposited in PPI envelope for ration period 7. The deduction will entered as a minus quantity at (c) of Part A of the deposit slip PP8."

WANT TO FIGHT

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Anxious to get into the thick of the fighting, a group of refugees from occupied France, reported at Scott Field recently to study radio communications. They had fled to North Africa previous to their arrival in the United States.

FIND MASTODON TUSK

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—(UP)—What appears to be a section of a giant mastodon tusk has been discovered in a gravel bed at Vestal, near here. The three-foot remnant believed to be the fourth such discovered in the area since 1898, was found about 10 feet below the surface of the ground in a gravel soil.

Win or Die---He Did Neither

Have a "Coke" = Aloha No (WELCOME, FRIEND)

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

...or how to be at home in Hawaii

There are two ways to greet a friend in Hawaii. Aloha No, says the native, and Have a "Coke", says the sailor. Both expressions carry the same note of welcome and affection. From Honolulu to Hartford Coca-Cola has become the symbol of the pause that refreshes—the gracious introduction between kindly-minded strangers.
